SPEAKER HARRIS ASSERTS BEFORE LEGISLATURE

HOUSE COMMITTEE VOTES APPROVAL OF ATLANTA BILLS

Local Revenue - Raising Measures Backed by Entire Delegation After Water Rate Changes; Action Is Unanimous.

FIVE-YEAR LIMIT
PUT ON INCREASE

Program Designed To Solve Municipal Financial Woes Expected To Pass by Next Week.

Passage of the Atlanta legislative program within 10 days was foreseen yesterday following adoption of compromises that resulted in the unanimous approval of the city program by the house municipal government committee.

Composing their differences over the proposed increase in water rates by agreeing to an amendment limiting the increase to a period of five years, members of the Fulton and DeKalb delegations said they would rush the city program through the house and senate as rapidly as possible.

If no further contention is aroused, the revenue-raising omnibus bill and its companion bill containing the constitutional amendments affecting only Atlanta, could be passed and in the hands of the Governor for his consideration within a week.

Unanimous Approval.
The municipal government committee of the house yesterday reported the revenue-raising bill out favorably with a unanimous vote after Helen Douglas Mankin, Fulton representative, and Augustine Sams, DeKalb representative, agreed to withdraw their opposition when the five-year water rate limitation was consented to by Representatives William G.
Hastings, Cicero Kendrick of Fulton, and Mell Turner, of DeKalb, all of whom are members of the house committee.

The adopted amendment provides that any increase placed upon the water rate shall automatically be taken off as of April 1, 1942, and that thereafter the rate shall be uniform to all users.

Sams and Mrs. Mankin insisted on the provision that the increase placed upon users of water outside the city limits shall be the same as that on users inside the city limits.

They pointed out that consumers outside the city limits already pay double rate with a service charge.

Can Start April 1.
Under provisions of the section restoring to the city the right to fix the water rate for five years, the proposed increase can be started as of April 1, 1937, if the program is approved by the general assembly and the Governor.

The Fulton and DeKalb delegations in the house plan to obtain the second reading of the omnibus bill today if possible and probably the third reading in the house can be given Saturday, if the house meets, and on Monday if it does not.

Thus, it seemed certain the omnibus bill would reach the senate either Monday or Tuesday. Three readings on different days are necessary in the upper house.

It was said that Senator Paul Lindsay of DeKalb, may offer opposition to the entire program or to certain phases of it when it reaches the senate.

Curial Program.
The amendment meeting will curtail somewhat the financial program of the city as outlined by city officials in drawing up the dovetailing program designed to pay the city out of debt, place it on a cash basis and maintain this basis through a change in the budget commission law forcing the commissioners to anticipate (over a period of years) less money each year than was actually received in the preceding year.

The revenue raising program includes the water rate change, adjustment of the city's debt, and the curial program.

Dykstra Is Selected
As Frank's Successor

MADISON, Wis., March 11.—(AP)—
The Associated Press learned today that the executive committee of the University of Wisconsin board of regents had selected Clarence A. Dykstra, city manager of Cincinnati, to succeed Dr. Glenn Frank as president of the university.

A member of the executive committee who asked that his name be withheld said Dykstra had been chosen but there had been no negotiations with him regarding terms.

The committee will meet with Dykstra sometime this week, probably Saturday or Sunday, to discuss the terms.
The recommendation of the three—an committee will be made to the board of regents as a whole at their meeting March 18 and 19.

Crime Is Apparently Funny to Thief, Escape Artist

His arms raised in holdup fashion, Forrest Turner (right), notorious escape who was recaptured here Sunday, smiled, apparently unaffected, when Victor Bowman, of Alto, put the "finger" on him at a police lineup last night.

Five Men Put 'Finger' on Forrest Turner,
Who Reveals Jail Visit to Pal, R. L. Colton

PRESIDENT ON WAY TO GEORGIA 'HOME'

Bullitt Accompanies Roosevelt To Report on European Developments.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, March 11.—Accompanied by a skeleton staff and the usual contingent of secret service operatives, newspapermen and photographers, President Roosevelt departed this afternoon for a two weeks' visit to Warm Springs.

It will be the first time the President has visited his favorite health resort since the fall of 1935. Last year he was prevented from making his annual Thanksgiving sojourn to Georgia by his trip to South America.

Arriving at Warm Springs tomorrow, Mr. Roosevelt planned to go directly to the "Little White House" on Pine Mountain, overlooking the foundation he established some years ago for victims of infantile paralysis.

While the length of his stay has not been definitely determined, expectations are that he will remain in the state until the latter part of the month.

The President's party includes Marvin H. McIntyre, of the White House secretariat, and Mrs. James Roosevelt, wife of his son, who will act as hostess during the visit. Her husband, now a member of the White House secretariat staff, probably will join the party next week, and it is likely that Mrs. Roosevelt, the first lady, will be on hand before the stay is ended.

William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France and former ambassador to Russia, also is a member of the President's train party. He will return to Washington after Mr. Roosevelt's arrival at Warm Springs, going along merely to give the chief executive a report.

Holdup Artist Posed as Messenger Boy in Savannah Bastille.

More than five were added to the list of persons who have put the "finger" on Forrest Turner, notorious escape who was recaptured Sunday morning, at a line-up held last night at police headquarters.

Besides victims of holdups and robberies, three guards employed at the Cherokee county prison camp, Canton, Ga., identified Turner as the man who aided in the escape last February of S. J. (Slim) Scarborough, convicted murderer.

R. L. Colton, said by police to have been Turner's companion on many criminal expeditions, was brought from Savannah, where he recently received a 20-year sentence, following his capture in that city, and also appeared in the line-up. He, too, was identified by holding victims.

Accomplice Viewed.
James Lawrence, alias Lawrence Gresham, who was captured in an automobile a short time before police took Turner into custody at a tourist camp on the new Macon highway, also was in the line-up.

More than two dozen persons viewed the men. Turner appeared dapper and talkative. During one point in the line-up, when several men from Columbus, Ga., failed to link him with a holdup, he made a low, sweeping bow, and murmured, in grandiose terms, "Thank you, folks, thank you."

Turner also revealed for the first time that the day following Colton's capture in Savannah, he disguised himself as a messenger boy and refused his pal, on pretext of delivering a telegram.

"We had quite a chat," Turner told Detective Leo Bahlik, who, with Detective M. M. Copenberger, was mainly responsible for Turner's capture, in referring to the visit to Colton.

The Cherokee county guards who identified Turner in connection with the Scarborough escape, were Clint Purcell, J. B. Haney Jr., and W. M.
Purcell.

Scarborough, who is still at large,
was convicted of the murder of W.
R. Neel, of Atlanta, as its head with the title of director of rural routes.

Session Continued.
Speaker Roy V. Harris said the house would stay on the bus and truck bill today, until it is completed.
The measure is being sponsored by Chairman Musgrove, of the public highway committee. In it are provided extra taxes for all commercial trucks and buses requiring them to pay all the way from $15 to $2,000 a year, depending on their weight, to use the highways of the state.

Administration leaders said that the measure would be passed today.

HIGHWAY PATROL MEASURE PASSED

Road Legislation Near Completion; Bus, Truck Measure Is Introduced.

The general assembly's wide program of highway legislation appeared nearly complete yesterday when both the house and senate accepted a conference committee report on the Sutton bill creating a state department of public safety, including the highway patrol, and the house then took up the administration-sponsored bill for a tax on commercial trucks and buses, designed to provide funds for the newly created secondary system of state highways.

The highway patrol measure was being engrossed last night and was expected to be ready for Governor Rivers' signature today. Governor Rivers has announced that he will sign the bill.

Immediately after the bus and truck bill hit the floor, it was deluged with amendments and the house held a night session to work on the amendments and a substitute offered by Representatives Field, of Whitfield county, and Jones, of Chattooga.

When the night session was called the attendance was too small to proceed with the bus and truck bill. The house then proceeded to disagree to the senate amendments on the bill designed to eliminate gasoline bootlegging and sent this measure to conference. The conference committee probably will be named today.

The house did accept the senate's substitute to the bill creating the secondary road system but tacked on a few minor amendments which the senate will take up this morning. This system will be under the highway board which already has appointed W. R. Neel, of Atlanta, as its head with the title of director of rural routes.

FORD FIRM WORKER

Mrs. Stephen Wise, Wife of Noted Rabbi, Called State Department's Attention to Publications.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(UP)— Secretary of State Cordell Hull has ordered "emphatic comment" made to Germany for anti-American dispatches published in the Nazi press, he disclosed today as Representative Samuel Dickstein, Democrat, New York, charged that 100 foreign spies are in this country fomenting a Fascist plot against the government.

The dispatches that aroused Hull's fire dealt with the recent meeting of the Jewish Women's Congress in New York over which Mrs. Stephen Wise, wife of the noted rabbi, presided. The texts were so obscene that the State Department refused to make them public.

Publication of the dispatches grew out of a speech made to the women's congress by New York's fiery mayor, Fiorello H. La Guardia, in which he said that a statue of Adolf Hitler should be placed in a "chamber of horrors" at the New York World's Fair in 1939.

Mrs. Wise's communication to Hull, in which she had informed him of the dispatches, was published in the Nazi press. She had instructed Ambassador
William E. Dodd in Berlin to make
"emphatic comment" to the German government.

Hull said today that Mrs. Wise had called the dispatches to his attention and that he had informed her that he had instructed Ambassador
William E. Dodd in Berlin to make
"emphatic comment" to the German government.

GUARD ASSIGNED TO WATCH MAYOR

Threats on Life Bring Action; Abuse Reported Heaped on Hartsfield.

Atlanta lottery operators, forced to transfer "check-up offices" to locations beyond the city limits through police department pressure, have made some "bitter boasts" about what they intended doing to Mayor Hartsfield, according to reports last night, and as a result a bodyguard has been assigned to the mayor by Chief of Police M. A.
Hornby.

Officials from Mayor Hartsfield and Chief Hornby down, last night were deprecating the threats, and Mayor Hartsfield denied that the bodyguard was anything more than the usual chauffeur assigned to the mayor's office.

However, Hartsfield has dispensed with this customary chauffeur from the date of his inauguration until yesterday, when Patrolman C. L. Heath was detailed by Chief Hornby to accompany the mayor.

It was learned that word of definite threats, however, since his program of officials, although Chief Hornby categorically denied knowledge of the purported plot.

Hartsfield has received many threats, however, since his program of reform, aimed at lottery operators and doves dispensing liquor and dens of disorder has been inaugurated in Atlanta. One, in which F. B. I. agents have been interested, was directed against the life of his son, William B. Hartsfield Jr.

The mayor has treated all such letters and telephone calls as jokes and has not taken them seriously.

Spring Really Here,
Observers Declare

Spring has arrived in full force, with temperatures running slightly above normal, observers at the Atlanta Weather Bureau said last night in forecasting fair skies and mild weather today. The low temperature is expected to be about 45 degrees.
The fair weather is expected to continue for several days, with the next rainy spell not yet indicated.
The low temperature yesterday morning was 45 degrees, with the mercury climbing during the day to a high of 65 degrees. Today the mercury is expected to equal this high mark and may possibly run several degrees higher.

How Counties in Alabama Voted on Repeal

Alabama counties in black in the above map voted for repeal in Wednesday's election. Only four counties in the northern, mountain part of the state, where moonshiners are more abundant, cast their lot with the repealists, while 20 southern counties, including five on the Georgia border, voted wet. The counties voting wet with the large cities in them are named. The counties staying dry are shown in white.

2 DEAD, 17 MISSING

3 Known To Have Escaped; No Hope Held For Others, Rescuer Asserts.

LOGAN, W. Va., March 11.—(AP)—
Seventeen men were trapped in old MacBeth mine tonight by an explosion which killed at least two men.

Company officials announced the bodies of Joe Frye, motorman, and Troy McCoy, Frye's brakeman, were found by rescue crews.

E. L. Caryle, member of a rescue crew, said "there is no hope for the other 17 men" still trapped in mine.
Caryle said "there is no air back where they are."

An official at the mine, scene of a disastrous blast last September 2, said, after receiving a few scant reports from the busy crews:

"All we know now is that it is a pretty bad explosion, and we won't know for an hour or two whether any of the 17 men still in the mine are dead or alive."

Three Men Escaped.
Officials of the Hutchinson Coal Company, which operates MacBeth, eight miles back over the hills from Logan, said three men escaped, they said one of them, John Butler, came out badly hurt.

Harold Hutchinson, son of the owner of the mine, reported:

"The explosion occurred in the second west main of MacBeth, about two and three quarters miles from the mine entrance. It was four entries farther back than the scene of the September 2 blast."

N. P. Rhinehart, chief of the state department of mines, said at Charleston gas apparently caused the explosion, which was localized.

BEER TAX DOUBLED AND TAX ON WINE IS VOTED BY HOUSE

Need for New Revenue To Finance Increase in State Expenditures Is Stressed by Speaker in Unexpected Speech.

"THIS IS WARNING,"
HE TELLS HOUSE

Tax on Wine Provides Wide Differential Between Imported Goods and Domestic Product.

Spurred on by an address by Speaker Roy V. Harris, of the house, in which he declared a sales tax or a gross receipts tax is inevitable should prohibition repeal fail to pass, the general assembly yesterday began its study of the state tax situation, with the senate voting to double the present $1.25 per barrel tax on beer and the house voting overwhelmingly for a tax on both domestic and imported wines.

In his speech on the floor of the house, Speaker Harris revealed that the repeal bill, to which an amendment providing for a state-wide referendum on June 8 will probably be added, may be taken up again Monday. Defeated on Tuesday, the bill was reconsidered Wednesday and now lies at the foot of the house calendar under the control of the rules committee, which is dominated by Harris and other leaders of the Rivers administration.

Sponsors of the bills to double the beer tax and to place a levy on wines declared the former will add $500,- 000 a year to the state's income and the latter will yield between $750,- 000 and $1,000,000 a year, all of which will go to finance the Rivers program for free school books. The house has yet to act on the beer increase which will bring the tax to $2.50 a gallon, while the senate must yet act on the wine tax. This levy would fix the tax on domestic wines, those manufactured in Georgia strictly of Georgia products, at 10 cents a gallon and those made outside the state at 60 cents a gallon.

To Rush Appropriations.
Speaker Harris also announced on the floor that the $20,000,000 general appropriations bill would be rushed through the house committee and presented for action early next week. The committee met later in the day and began its study of the bill, Chairman William H. Key announcing he hoped to have it approved by Monday or Tuesday.

The appearance of Harris on the floor came as a surprise. He spoke in support of the wine tax bill sponsored by Representatives Freeman, of Cobb county, and Carmichael, of Cobb county.

"I can see no other alternative but a sales tax or a gross receipts tax if the liquor bill is not approved," Speaker Harris said. "This is a warning.
We have enacted legislation which will cost the state millions of dollars a year and it is up to this assembly to see where that money is coming from."

Would Be Ridiculous.
"If we go back without enacting a tax program and an appropriations bill we will be in a ridiculous posi-

"In my opinion it will take a doubling of the tax on beer and a repeal of the tax on wine to finance the free school book program."

"We have pending a tax on trucks and buses which should finance the rural route program."

"We will have to raise four and a half million dollars to finance the seven months' school program."

"There are pending on the present calendar an increase in the cigar and cigarette tax and a revision of the income tax. These should finance the school program."

"There remains to be financed the Restaurant Operator

Found Shot to Death

Shot in the neck, John Tsouroulis, 51, of 138 Mills street, who several years ago legally adopted the name of John B. Smith, was pronounced dead upon arrival at Grady hospital a short time after he collapsed in front of 287 Hayden street at about 9 o'clock last night.

Police expressed the belief Smith, who had been a restaurant operator at 287 Hayden street, was slain in an attempted holdup. A trail of blood from his wound, which apparently severed the jugular vein, led to a half block from where he collapsed. He was found by several pedestrians, who called an ambulance.

Besides the wound in his neck, powder had burned his right hand slightly.
Radio Patrolmen Kirk Wootter and Fred Battle reported. Smith is survived by his wife, two brothers and a sister. Funeral plans will be announced by J. Austin Dillon.

Shadow of Pauper's Grave Gone, 'Apple Mary' Waits End in Peace

"Condition poor—unchanged." That's the report on the card of Mary Grace, Atlanta's "Apple Mary," on the door of her room at the Steiner clinic, where she is daily drawing nearer the death which the arts of man cannot avert, but which has been made a peaceful and contented ending through the generosity of Atlanta.

WELSH RAREBIT
demands
SAUCE
THE ORIGINAL
WORCESTERSHIRE

Mary Grace, surrounded by flowers and attended by the gentle ministrations of a sweet-faced nurse, is dying of cancer, but she is dying with a smile upon her worn old face, a smile placed there because of the lifting of that last shadow of a life of shadows, the shadow of a pauper's grave.

Responding to the appeal first made in these columns four days ago, Atlanta has opened her generous heart until today there is not only assured, for Mary Grace, the kind of funeral of which she dreamed, but there is approximately $250 surplus, to be used as directed by the old lady herself, in ways that will best please her simple heart.

Requests Debt Payment.

Yesterday morning the young woman to whom she first sent her pathetic letter expressing her dread of a pauper's grave, visited the hospital and asked Mary what would make her most happy of all the things that can be done with $250.

"I have been worried," she said, in the voice so weak you have to stoop to hear, "about some debts I owe. Could they be paid? It would lift a load from my mind."

Then she told of her little financial obligations, a dollar to this one, two dollars to another and 50 cents to a third. Not much, in all, but obligations of honor that, unmet, disturbed the dying peace of an honest old woman.

She was told they would be paid, every one of them, immediately and her visitor glimpsed a new smile on Mary's face, thought she saw some of the myriad wrinkles of care fade away.

"And there is my furniture. I haven't quite finished paying for it, and maybe the furniture company will take it back."

She was told that would be attended to, and again a smile of added content was her friend's reward.

Later the friend visited the furniture company she named and found the balance due on the furniture was a little less than $40. The company wanted to help in the happy task of bringing peace to the heart of the dying woman, so they divided the sum in half and gave a receipt in full, to be later shown to Mary herself, for half the amount still owing.

More Flowers.

Yesterday there were more flowers for Mary Grace and more inquiries as to her condition at the Steiner clinic where she rests.

She, today, is the lady closest to Atlanta's heart, she, the old woman who peddled newspapers and chewing gum and candy and apples from her post in the entrance of a downtown office building, through all the long years of want and privation. Long years broken only by her elevation, for one day to the status of feted lady, luxuriating in wealth, a "lady for a day," just to exploit a motion picture.

They say, at the hospital, it is impossible to predict just how near the end is, for Mary Grace. It might come any time and they don't think she can possibly cling to life for longer than one week more.

But, now, she is not afraid. Her kind old heart is at peace and she waits, content, to greet the Angel of Death with a smile.

For she, the old Apple Woman, is dying as a lady should die.

And, after she has stepped eagerly through that little door which opens for us all and which leads to a land where poverty and sorrow and suffering are unknown, she will be buried like a lady.

She will be borne in simple dignity to that quiet grave in Hollywood cemetery where the husband she loved in life has waited five years for her to join him.

Though it was reported yesterday there is now more than enough on hand to give Mary Grace the funeral she wants, a few more given sent in their contributions during the day to Hugh Trotter, treasurer of the Apple Mary fund at The Constitution.

WITNESS' CONVICTION UPHELD IN HIGH COURT

Georgia Appellate Bench Holds Griffin Ordinance Is Constitutional.

The court of appeals affirmed yesterday the conviction of Alma Lovell in the recorder's court of Griffin for distributing literature in violation of a city ordinance.

The ordinance, which required the written permission of the city manager to engage in such activity was declared constitutional.

The court said it did not abridge the freedom of the press.

The defendant was fined $50 or 50 days in jail. Her conviction was upheld by Judge W. E. H. Searey Jr., of Spalding superior court. The high court affirmed Judge Searey.

The defendant testified in the recorder's court she was a member of a religious organization, The Jehovah's Witnesses.

In another case the court of appeals upheld the right of Mrs. Ophelia Mercer to sue the Commercial Casualty Company, in Savannah city court, on a $500 policy for the death of her son, Gus Mercer.

The insurance company claimed the policy did not cover death by natural causes and Judge Alexander McDowell threw out Mrs. Mercer's case. The court of appeals reversed his ruling.

MEXICO SUGGESTS U. S. CHECK GOLD IMPORTS

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(UP) Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau at the request of the Mexican government, tonight directed collectors of customs to refuse entry into the United States of gold shipments from the southern republic unless each shipment is accompanied by a certificate showing it may be lawfully exported from Mexico.

The secretary's action has the approval of the President, the treasury's announcement said. His instructions, however, did not apply to "fabricated gold" as defined in the provisional regulations issued under the gold reserve act of 1934, and any substance, including gold in its natural state which does not contain more than five troy ounces of fine gold per short ton.

POLICE, FLIERS HUNT FOR MISSING WOMAN

PASS-A-GRIFFLE, Fla., March 11. (AP)—Police and coast guard fliers searched today for Mrs. E. M. Ashworth, 41, of Hoochville Falls, N. Y., who disappeared mysteriously from her beach home last night.

Planes flew over the waters of the gulf and Boca Ciega Bay adjacent to Long Key. Deputy Sheriff Art Weaver pushed a land hunt.

Officers said Mrs. Ashworth had been in poor health.

VOTED BY COMMITTEE

ments in the sanitary tax, an increase in the city ad valorem rate and removal of the $500 business license limitation. The maximum amount of money expected to be collected under the increases proposed in the bill will be $1,400,000 for two years, falling down somewhat from that figure when the two mill tax rate increase is automatically reduced by half.

The other mill comes off after five years, being earmarked for the purpose of paying off the city's present $1,700,000 deficit.

Use for Money.

Money raised by the increase in the water rates is to be used for repairing and replacement within the water works department, with the exception of 30 per cent of the increase, which goes to the schools as required by law.

It was estimated that more than $1,000,000 and possibly as much as $1,200,000 will be needed to build new filtration beds, buy new pumps, replace worn boilers and otherwise repair and modernize the water works department to care for the ever-increasing load it is required to carry. The present plant was built to supply 30,000 users and already has more than 60,000 taps, taxing its capacity every summer and is in constant danger of pumping pollution through the city because of the overload.

W. Zode Smith, head of the water works department, said if the bill passes in the general assembly, plans for beginning the necessary construction will be mapped immediately. It takes at least two years to build a filtration bed, he explained.

Another bill handled yesterday by the Fulton delegation affected only College Park. This bill was passed by the house of representatives. It provides for an amendment to College Park's charter to allow it to set up a commission-city manager form of government. Three commissioners elected from as many wards would receive salaries of $25 a month and would have the power of setting the salary to be paid the city manager.

social security program, and the better care of eleemosynary institutions and institutions of higher education.

"Better collection of taxes under more stringent regulatory laws we have passed should take care of eleemosynary institutions and the educational program.

Two members of the house of representatives who voted for repeal of the prohibition law Tuesday when it failed of passage yesterday took steps to provide for rigid enforcement, saying that they were desirous of ending the "frand."

Representative Clark, of Catonsville, a veteran repealer leader, introduced a bill providing for a $1,000,000 appropriation for enforcement of the dry law and setting up an enforcement commission to handle the task.

"If we are not going to repeal prohibition we may as well go on and enforce it to the limit," Representative Clark said. "Let them pay their tax money to enforce it. They won't stand for enforcement and they won't let us change the situation so they can regulate it."

Meanwhile the house had before it a bill by Representative Dunn, of Pike county, making violations of the prohibition law a felony. Violations are now in the misdemeanor class.

The Dunn bill would make the purchaser of liquor equally as guilty as the distributor and would provide a felony punishment for him as well.

"If we get behind some of these folks who drink wet and vote dry we be we can get some of our friends here in the house to see the light," Judge Dunn said.

over station WGST, reiterated the remarks he had made on the floor of the house.

Meanwhile the house received from Representative Jim Clark of Catonsville, a veteran repealer leader, a bill setting up a state liquor enforcement commission and providing an appropriation of $1,000,000 annually to finance the enforcement.

The house also had before it Representative Dunn of Pike county, another repealer advocate, making violation of the dry law a felony instead of a misdemeanor.

The senate passed the $250 per barrel tax on beer with only a few dissenting votes after an effort by Senator Harrell, of Lumpkin, to have the tax fixed at $4 a barrel was defeated by a vote of 30 to 16. The levy was fixed in amendment to a bill which gives the revenue commission authority to inaugurate the crown tax system of beer tax collections. This system was approved by the senate. It earlier had been approved by the house when the bill now goes for concurrence in the beer increase.

Reduction Defeated.

After the Harrell plan had been defeated Senator Griner, of Ocala, sought to lower the tax to $2 a barrel but was defeated, 28 to 10.

The wine levy was approved by the house after a hard battle over the size of it. Representative Key, of Jasper county, sought to have the domestic wine levy fixed at 5 cents a gallon and imported wine at 30 cents a gallon, but his substitute bill, carrying these provisions, was voted down by a large majority.

In the meantime the senate finance committee's subcommittee handling the house-approved chain store levy held a meeting at an unannounced place. Chairman J. Howard Ennis, of Milldegeville, said the pressure was so heavy on the committee it had to work in secret. The subcommittee report is expected to be ready in a day or two. The measure will not reach the senate floor before next week.

'HOUSE CALLED BETHEL' TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

Musical Pageant Will Be Presented For First Time at Bethel Church.

A pageant, "House Called Bethel," depicting the history of the A. M. E. church, will be presented tonight at 8 o'clock at Big Bethel church. Direction of the pageant is in the hands of Professor Earl A. Starling, head of the music department of Morris Brown College.

Aside from the informative nature of the historical picture which the pageant will present, a number of selections, requested by former Atlanta audiences, have been inserted into the production by the director.

Time required for the performance is an hour and a half. Musical numbers will be continuous, the themes for the selections being heralded by short episodes which direct the progress of the pageant.

Seats have been arranged for white persons, the director said. A plan for presenting the pageant in other cities is under consideration following the Atlanta premiere, it was announced by Professor Starling.

ASKS HERO EXEMPTION.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—Representative John E. Rankin, of Tupelo, Miss., proposed today that holders of the medal of honor, distinguished service cross or navy cross be permitted to enter the civil service without examination.

THREE MEALS A DAY

HOME TESTED RECIPES

Sally Saver

Saint Patrick would certainly be a proud and mighty saint by this time if he had been privileged to attend all the affairs planned in his honor. Our holidays are celebrated in various ways but hardly a one passes without the serving of food in some manner. St. Patrick's Day characters and symbols are made to order for the homemaker who wants to display her ingenuity. Green in foods is not at all difficult to find and such attractive things can be made with olives, pickles, green cherries, and tinted cheese spreads.

A good salad with appropriate accompaniments is the sort of refreshment that will fit many occasions. It is ideal for a noonday luncheon or afternoon repast and is quite sufficient to serve at the end of an evening of games and entertainment. This St. Patrick's Day salad has been planned with an eye for ease in preparation also for its attractive color and flavor combinations. A jar of mayonnaise or salad dressing from your grocers will add just the necessary finishing touch to the salad.

St. Patrick's Day Salad.

One package lime-flavored gelatin, 1 cup dark red sweet cherries pitted, 1 cup white sweet cherries pitted, 1 to 2 cups cottage cheese.

Prepare the lime gelatin as directed on package. Arrange the dark and light pitted cherries in a greased salad mold, pour part of the gelatin mixture over it and allow it to become firm before filling the remainder of the mold. This will hold the fruit in place. At serving time unmold the salad on a bed of lettuce and serve accompanied with either prepared salad dressing or mayonnaise, cottage cheese and garnish with green minted cherries.

The sandwiches suggested with this are a delight with any fruit salad but they are especially attractive at this time when cut in the shape of shamrocks. When they are made from gingerbread you will enjoy a new variety that will combine well with those made from white and whole wheat breads. The gingerbread will slice best if prepared a day in advance. If you do not have a gingerbread recipe that is a family favorite you will cherish this one for years to come, it is old-fashioned perhaps, but still good for many future generations.

Gingerbread.

One-half cup sugar, 1-2 cup butter or chicken fat (try out and clarify the chicken fat), 2 eggs well beaten, 1 cup molasses, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 teaspoons baking soda, 1-2 teaspoon ground cloves, 1-2 teaspoon ground ginger, 2-1/2 cups sifted flour, 1 cup boiling water.

Cream the butter and add the sugar gradually, blend well and add the beaten eggs and the molasses. Fold in the dry ingredients that have been sifted together. Add the hot water quickly and place batter in a well-greased baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for about 40 minutes.

Open-Faced Shamrock Sandwiches.

Cut sliced gingerbread in shamrock shapes and spread one side with any of the following fillings: Cream cheese flavored with crushed pineapple, chopped nut meats, chopped candied ginger, chopped candied orange rind, chopped minted cherries or chopped dates. These spreads are attractive for St. Patrick's Day when tinted green by the addition of a drop or two of vegetable coloring. The tops of the sandwiches may be garnished with nut meats and halves of green minted cherries.

Here is another salad recipe:

St. Pat's Lenten Salad.

Two packages lime-flavored gelatin, 1 pint boiling water, 1 pint cold water, 10 medium-sized pear halves, 10 large stuffed olives. Return to refrigerator and chill until set. Unmold on chop plate and fill center with tuna fish salad, blended lightly with mayonnaise. Garnish top with sliced stuffed olives and surround mold with watercress or parsley.

A Party Luncheon Menu.

Fruit Mousse.

(Suitable for mechanical refrigerator.)

One cup sugar, 1-3 cup water, 3 egg whites, 1-2 cups whipped cream, 1-2 cup candied pineapple, 1-2 cup candied cherries, 1-2 teaspoons vanilla, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

Boil sugar and water 2 minutes. Pour over beaten egg whites. Beat 3 minutes or until cool. Add rest of ingredients and pour into tray in mechanical refrigerator. It will require about 4 hours to freeze. No stirring is necessary. Because this is a rich dessert small portions should be served. (This dessert may be frozen tightly sealing in a covered mold and burying 4 hours in 3 parts chopped ice to one part coarse salt.)

Gold Cakes.

Four tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons milk, 1-2 teaspoon lemon extract, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 cup pastry flour, 1-4 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream butter and sugar. Add rest of ingredients and beat 2 minutes. Half fill greased muffin pans or paper baking cups and bake 15 minutes.

One cup grated cheese, 1 cup soft bread, 1-2 cups hot milk, 3 egg yolks, 3 egg whites, beaten, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-4 teaspoon celery salt, 1-4 teaspoon minced onions.

Mix cheese, bread, milk and yolks. Let soak 5 minutes. Add rest of the ingredients, mixing lightly. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake 35 minutes in a moderately slow oven. Serve in the dish in which baked.

Mushroom Sauce.

Three tablespoons butter, 1 cup diced fresh mushrooms, 3 tablespoons flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon paprika, 1-4 teaspoon minced parsley, 1-2 cups milk.

Melt butter in a frying pan. Add the mushrooms and cook 7 minutes, or until a little brown. Add flour and when blended add the rest of the ingredients. Boil 2 minutes. Serve in a bowl.

(If canned mushrooms are used they will require but 4 minutes of cooking—just enough to brown them well.)

Harvard Beets.

Two cups diced cooked beets, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 cup water, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika.

Women Workers' Aid Sought in House Bill

An eight-hour working day and a minimum salary of $12.50 a week for women workers would be established by enactment of a bill introduced in the house yesterday by Field, of Whitefield.

The regulation would apply "to every person, firm or corporation employed in manufacturing, mechanical or mercantile establishment; cafe, restaurant or other eating place."

The bill does not regulate the number of days to be worked in any week.

A bill by Milam, of Spalding, for an eight-hour day, 40-hour week for all industrial workers has been held in a house committee without action since early in the session.

The Milam bill did not attempt to regulate wages.

Melt butter. Add flour and, when mixed, add the milk. Cook until a creamy sauce forms, stirring constantly. Add rest of the ingredients and cook two minutes. Serve immediately.

DEKALB NEW ERA BOUGHT BY HERALD

Combined Issue of 2 Decatur Papers To Be Published Today.

With appearance today of a combined issue of the DeKalb New Era and Decatur Herald, purchase of the New Era Publishing Company by the owners of the Herald will be made known, it was announced yesterday.

The combined newspapers will in the future carry the nameplate of the DeKalb New Era with the DeKalb Herald and Stone Mountain News being run under it in smaller type, the owners announced.

Only one of the old New Era's features, Random Remarks by J. A. Hall, will survive.

Murphy Candler Jr. will edit the new paper and Alfred Kuttner will serve as news editor. Others associated with the paper will be Augustine Sams, John Wesley Weekes and J. O. Bowen.

The Herald was organized only a few weeks ago.

TEXTILE LEADERS PLAN PARLEY IN WASHINGTON

Heavy - Producing Nations Invited To Participate in Sessions Next Month.

Warren Irvin, American press officer at the International Labor Office in Geneva, headquarters for the League of Nations, was in Atlanta yesterday conferring with leaders in the textile industry on the forthcoming Tripartite Preparatory Textile conference to be held in Washington beginning on April 2.

The conference was called by the International Labor Office at the suggestion of President Roosevelt, Irvin stated, and all textile producing countries, including Germany, the only nation not a member of the ILO, have been asked to send delegations of government, employers' and workers' representatives. Among the countries which have already accepted the invitation are the United States, Great Britain, France, Japan, Belgium and Czechoslovakia.

Discussion of all aspects of the industry affecting the improvement of social conditions therein will be the main theme of the conference program. Irvin said it was hoped, by this conference, to pave the way for the adoption of a 40-hour week international agreement at the session, next June, of the ILO.

Irvin, a former newspaperman, was on the city staff, and later attached to the London and Paris bureaus of the New York Times. He resigned from that paper to accept his present post about 18 months ago. He is a native of Baltimore.

He is now making a tour of the south, contacting textile leaders in all textile areas, in the interest of the coming conference at Washington. He left Geneva on February 10 last and, after brief visits in New York and Washington, began his present itinerary. He expects to return to Geneva after the close of the conference.

He left Atlanta last night for Macon, where he plans to spend today meeting executives of textile plants there.

VINSON-GUFFEY BILL, ENDING COAL RATE WAR, IS PASSED BY HOUSE

Measure Now Goes to Senate; Has Support of G.O.P. Leaders.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(UP)—The house today passed overwhelmingly the revised Guffey-Vinson bill to eliminate cut-throat competition in the bituminous coal industry by strict regulation of prices and sales methods.

No record vote was taken. The bill now goes to the senate where last session a filibuster filled a similar measure to re-enact price-fixing provisions of the original Guffey act which was invalidated by the supreme court because of the wage and hour stipulations.

Leaders of 500,000 organized coal miners united with coal producers in urging enactment of the revised measure which would give considerable republican support.

Fix Minimum Prices.
The bill authorizes district code boards to fix minimum coal prices based on average costs which the boards "shall adjust as may be necessary to give effect to any change in wage rates, hours of employment or other factors substantially affecting costs."

Mine union leaders now in New York negotiating with producers for a coal contract to replace the one expiring March 31, believe that this provision will improve their chances for obtaining higher wages and shorter hours since it would assure operators that increased labor costs would be absorbed in higher coal prices.

The measure protects consumers against "unreasonably high prices," however, by a provision directing the national bituminous coal commission to fix maximum prices providing only a "reasonable" profit wherever it deems such action desirable. In addition, a "consumers" counsel would report directly by congress.

Little Opposition.
Little opposition developed in the house and what few amendments were offered were beaten down.

The bill would establish 23 district "code boards" under a national commission, with power to prescribe minimum and maximum prices and rules of fair competition in marketing.

Wally Mum on Duke In Chat With Scribe

MONTPELIER, France, March 11.—(UP)—Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson sipped sherry wine with this correspondent in the library of the chateau de Cande today and gossiped in a British accent about the French language, the weather and golf—which she plays badly—but she failed to say anything about the Duke of Windsor.

About the only connection the blue-eyed American divorcee's easy chatter had with her impending marriage to Edward, was a chance remark that indicated she reads newspaper stories about herself and the Duke with great interest.

As she held out her hand to say goodbye she smiled and remarked, with a twinkle in her eye: "You can see I am a much better motorist than newspapers gave me credit for being. I don't look a bit pale and wan, do I?"

She also remarked, apropos of spring styles, that she was not preparing a trousseau.

SCHOOL PUBLICATIONS IN ATLANTA RANK HIGH

'Girls' High Times' Wins First Place in National Contest.

Competing with 959 newspapers and magazines representing secondary and elementary schools in 47 states, Girls' High school won a first place and Joe E. Brown Junior High school won a fourth place in the annual contest of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, it was announced last night.

The "Girls' High Times," published semi-monthly, was a medalist, or first place winner, in the class for senior high schools with enrollments between 801 and 1,500 students.

"Joe Junior," a semi-monthly, of which Betty V. Converse, ninth grade pupil, is editor, also won a medal for fourth place in the class for junior high schools with enrollments of 1,201 or more students.

Miss Jessie Muse, principal of Girls' High school, and A. G. Martin, principal of Joe E. Brown Junior High school, expressed satisfaction last night with the showing of their student publications.

The Columbia Scholastic Press Association is now in session at New York, where the judging took place. Judges compared each paper with those in its own class, with the classes determined by type of school, number of students, and type of paper or magazine.

NEW YORK, March 11.—(UP)—Thomas Thorsen was fined $1 today for smoking in a subway. When he said he didn't have the money, Magistrate Pinto allowed him to pay off with six cigarettes.

Confederate Hero Answers 'Last Call' Here

James R. (Uncle Jimmy) Jordon, the last surviving member of the famous Colquitt Brigade, died yesterday morning at the Confederate Soldiers' Home. His long white hair was symbolic of his spirited devotion to the cause for which he fought. He swore at the close of the War Between the States not to cut his locks "until the Confederacy is free."

'Uncle Jimmy' Jordon Falls Out Of Thin Gray Line at Home Here

Last Surviving Member of Famed Colquitt Brigade Dies of Double Pneumonia at Confederate Home; To Be Given Soldier's Burial in Marietta Cemetery.

A brave old warrior was lost to the south yesterday with the death of James R. ("Uncle Jimmy") Jordon at the Confederate Soldiers' home. The 91-year-old veteran, the last surviving member of the famed Colquitt brigade, died of double pneumonia, which followed an attack of influenza.

"Uncle Jimmy's" spirited devotion to the south and the cause for which he fought had made him known all over the state. His long white hair was a symbol of that devotion. At the close of the War Between the States he swore never to cut his locks "until the Confederacy is free," and he kept his promise throughout the remainder of his life.

Enlisting at the age of 19, he took part in the battles of Seven Pines, the Wilderness, Chancellorsville and Petersburg. He was wounded in the chest during the battle of Seven Pines and later was shot in the leg and held prisoner for three months.

He had lived at the soldiers' home for the past 15 years, being made unofficial leader of the veterans when he took up his residence at the home. Not only was "Uncle Jimmy" loved by every other veteran and the staff at the soldiers' home, but he had gained the devotion of the entire section of the city. His death yesterday left the whole neighborhood grief-stricken.

His reminiscences entertained old and young alike, one of his favorite and most touching stories being the death of Stonewall Jackson, who was accidentally shot by one of his own men. "Uncle Jimmy" was on the picket line the night Jackson was fatally wounded and was stationed only a mile away from the spot where the general was shot.

The veteran is survived by one son, J. A. Jordon, of Jacksonville, who arrived here yesterday two hours before his father died.

Precedence will be broken at the Soldiers' Home today for "Uncle Jimmy," who expressed the wish that his body remain at the home until time for burial. His wish will be fulfilled, according to Mrs. Mary Gondek, superintendent of the home. The body will lie in state in the chapel of the home until his comrades pay him final tribute with services at 2 o'clock this afternoon, giving him an honor never conferred on any other veteran.

Dr. Louis D. Newton and Dr. Ellis A. Fuller will conduct the services in the chapel. Burial will be in the Confederate section of the National cemetery at Marietta, with the veteran's nephews acting as pallbearers.

TWO ARE CONVICTED FOR KIDNAPING WENDEL
NEW YORK, March 11.—(UP)—Two of five men accused of kidnaping Paul H. Wendel and torturing him into a false "confession" to the Lindbergh baby abduction were convicted late today in a Brooklyn jury's speedy verdict.

Wendel is a former Trenton (N. J.) attorney.

The jury deliberated 52 minutes on the case of Martin Schlossman and Harry Weiss. Another jury a month ago had disagreed after hour upon hour of discussion.

The end of the affair of Wendel, a fantastic offshoot to the Lindbergh crime, is still to come, however. Weiss, Schlossman and Murray Bleefeld, who pleaded guilty at the first trial, are yet to be sentenced. Judge Fitzgerald set no date for that matter. The kidnaping penalty in New York state runs from 20 years to life.

The two men pictured by both defense and prosecution as the central villains of Wendel's abduction—Ellis Parker, a Burlington county (New Jersey) detective, and his son, Ellis Jr., have not been brought to trial here because Governor Hoffman, of New Jersey, refused to permit their extradition.

The prosecution claimed the five seized Wendel and by cruelty forced him to admit a crime he had not committed—the Lindbergh abduction—thus giving the convicted kidnapers, Bruno Hauptmann, a brief lease on life.

The defense said it would appeal.

JERSEY OFFICIALS REFUSE TO COMMENT ON CASE
TRENTON, N. J., March 11.—(UP)—New Jersey officials who played some role in the Lindbergh baby kidnap case, unanimously refused tonight to comment on the conviction of Martin Schlossman and Harry Weiss, in the Paul H. Wendel kidnaping, its strange sequel.

Among those who replied "no comment" when informed of the verdict were Governor Harold G. Hoffman, who stayed the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann and refused to extradite Ellis Parker Sr., Burlington county detective chief, indicted with Weiss and Schlossman.

MAGRUDER REASSIGNED.
FORT BENNING, Ga., March 11.—(UP)—Brigadier General L. S. Singleton, commandant, has announced assignment of Colonel Bruce Magruder, formerly commanding officer of the 66th infantry, Fort Meade, Md., as executive officer of the infantry school here. He succeeds Lieutenant Colonel Maurice D. Welty, assigned as a student in the infantry school tank section.

U. S. CREDIT IS URGED FOR CONSUMER GROUPS

President's Commission Makes Long-Awaited Report on Co-operative Movements.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(UP)—President Roosevelt's commission on co-operatives has recommended that consumers banding together to obtain lower prices be assured the same credit which is available to business and to farmers' co-operatives.

This was revealed tonight with publication of the commission's long-awaited report on an exhaustive study of the co-operative movement in Europe.

It disclosed a wide difference of opinion among the members as to the future of the co-operative movement in this country. Some predicted a great development; others foresaw serious stumbling blocks; several warned that "high pressure" promotion of the movement by the government or others would lead to graft and failure.

The publicity staff of the Works Progress Administration, which distributed copies of the report to the press, issued a statement saying that the commission transmitted these recommendations separately to the President.

1. That a survey of consumer and service co-operatives in the United States be made.

2. That an agency be established or designated to give information, research and advisory service to consumers' co-operatives.

3. That steps be taken to assure consumer co-operatives "credit parity."

Announcement of the recommendations came as a surprise to some observers in view of the fact that one commission member—Jacob Baker, former assistant WPA administrator—said recently there probably would be none.

Its report, the commission said, found that European co-operatives keep down retail margins by low capital costs, large volume of trade, lower executive salaries, standardized goods and mass buying.

CALIFORNIA MAY DROP KAUFMAN CHARGES
LOS ANGELES, March 11.—(UP)—Playwright George S. Kaufman's exile from Hollywood as a result of the sensational Mary Astor custody case appeared likely to be ended legally today.

Attorneys for Dr. Franklyn Thorpe, Miss Astor's former husband who sought custody of their daughter, said they would move for dismissal of contempt of court charges against Kaufman.

Kaufman, summoned last summer to testify concerning Miss Astor's famous diary in which he was prominently mentioned, fled California. The contempt citation has been hanging since.

Business Progress In Recovery Parade

Federal Reserve Board Reports Bank Increase.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(UP)—The Federal Reserve Board estimated today excess bank reserves totaled $1,380,000,000 on March 10, an increase of $70,000,000 for the week.

The rise in the supply of idle funds available for credit expansion was traceable partly to a $31,000,000 drop in money in circulation, bringing a back-flow to the banks of this amount, and a $30,000,000 decline in treasury deposits with federal reserve banks.

When the treasury withdraws funds from reserve banks and they are disbursed into business and trade channels and thus flow into the commercial banking system to finally bring an increase in excess reserves.

Dairy Products Show History Breaking Sales.
NEW YORK, March 11.—(UP)—National Dairy Products Corporation reported 1936 net profits of $13,282,028, equal after dividends on preferred stock to $2.01 a share of common stock.

Profit for 1935 was $9,833,205, equal to $1.38 a share on the common stock.

Sales totaled $329,171,729 compared with $290,441,357 in 1935, an increase of 13.3 per cent.

Thomas H. McInerney, president, said total unit volume of dairy products sold was the largest in the company's history, amounting to 4,188,752,000 quarts.

Remington Announces Newly Formed Company.
NEW YORK, March 11.—(UP)—Remington Arms Co., of Bridgeport, Conn., reported 1936 consolidated income of $1,100,905. This included extraordinary income of $175,855 as adjustment of inventory values, and $125,000 as compensation for use of trade marks and technical information supplied to a newly formed Brazilian company in which Remington has a 50 per cent interest.

For 1935 net income was $136,525. Sales totaled $14,501,451, an increase of 14.6 per cent over 1935.

Freight Car Head Says Business Is Good.
NEW YORK, March 11.—(UP)—General American Transportation Corporation reported today 1936 net profit of $2,986,415 equal to $2.91 a share on 1,017,603 common shares. This compares with $2,208,924 or $2.94 on 838,008 shares in 1935.

Lester Selig, president, said the company's manufacturing plants are operating at a high percentage of capacity and have a sufficient backlog of orders to continue at the present rate for several months.

FRENCH PEOPLE ASKED TO SUPPORT ARMS LOAN

Lebrun Cites 'Critical Hour' in Making Appeal by Radio.

PARIS, March 11.—(UP)—A plea to the French people to support the government's five billion franc ($228,000,000) defense loan, was broadcast tonight by President Albert Lebrun.

Urging the need for "solidarity of Frenchmen in critical hours," the President said:

"I asked you to subscribe in proportion to your means to the national defense fund."

"Abstention would be harmful under present circumstances. . . Nations about us are competing in sacrifices and efforts to rearm. Should we remain indifferent? I know what you all think on this subject."

The first installment, less than half the total loan authorized by parliament, will be issued tomorrow at 98, bearing 4-1/2 per cent and reimbursable in 60 years.

Capital and coupons will be paid in French francs, dollars, sterling, and the later by the Bank of International Settlements. Subscription books will remain open until March 25.

BONNETT CONFIDENT OF NEW FRENCH LOAN
WASHINGTON, March 11.—(UP)—French Ambassador Georges Bonnet tonight capped a week of rumors and official exchanges over the new French defense loan with a declaration of confidence that his people will meet their financial troubles with their own resources.

The statement was his first since a move by French to interest American investors in the proposed $1,000,000,000 loan by considering appointment of a paying agent in New York.

The treasury objected to the French idea, which was widely interpreted as an attempt to evade the American law against loans to France or other defaulting nations.

Earlier in the day Secretary Morgenthau reported he had seen no indications of any movement of American capital abroad for investment in the new French defense loan.

Penny Sniffing Dog Well, Ready To 'Nose' Around
SALEM, Va., March 11.—(UP)—Oscar, the dog with a nose for copper pennies, is up and about again putting the sniff on pennies.

Oscar's owner, G. F. Whittier, who has banked $28 in pennies his dog retrieved, reported he found his pet Monday suffering from a spinal injury. A veterinarian cured him.

"It's funny about my Oscar," said Whittier. "He won't chase nickels, dimes or quarters. But just toss a penny, no matter how far, and off goes Oscar. It's been going on for five years, now."

TWO ARE CONVICTED FOR KIDNAPING WENDEL

Three Yet To Face Trial; Jersey Officials Silent on Case.

NEW YORK, March 11.—(UP)—Two of five men accused of kidnaping Paul H. Wendel and torturing him into a false "confession" to the Lindbergh baby abduction were convicted late today in a Brooklyn jury's speedy verdict.

The jury deliberated 52 minutes on the case of Martin Schlossman and Harry Weiss. Another jury a month ago had disagreed after hour upon hour of discussion.

The end of the affair of Wendel, a fantastic offshoot to the Lindbergh crime, is still to come, however. Weiss, Schlossman and Murray Bleefeld, who pleaded guilty at the first trial, are yet to be sentenced. Judge Fitzgerald set no date for that matter. The kidnaping penalty in New York state runs from 20 years to life.

The two men pictured by both defense and prosecution as the central villains of Wendel's abduction—Ellis Parker, a Burlington county (New Jersey) detective, and his son, Ellis Jr., have not been brought to trial here because Governor Hoffman, of New Jersey, refused to permit their extradition.

The prosecution claimed the five seized Wendel and by cruelty forced him to admit a crime he had not committed—the Lindbergh abduction—thus giving the convicted kidnapers, Bruno Hauptmann, a brief lease on life.

The defense said it would appeal.

JERSEY OFFICIALS REFUSE TO COMMENT ON CASE
TRENTON, N. J., March 11.—(UP)—New Jersey officials who played some role in the Lindbergh baby kidnap case, unanimously refused tonight to comment on the conviction of Martin Schlossman and Harry Weiss, in the Paul H. Wendel kidnaping, its strange sequel.

Among those who replied "no comment" when informed of the verdict were Governor Harold G. Hoffman, who stayed the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann and refused to extradite Ellis Parker Sr., Burlington county detective chief, indicted with Weiss and Schlossman.

MAGRUDER REASSIGNED.
FORT BENNING, Ga., March 11.—(UP)—Brigadier General L. S. Singleton, commandant, has announced assignment of Colonel Bruce Magruder, formerly commanding officer of the 66th infantry, Fort Meade, Md., as executive officer of the infantry school here. He succeeds Lieutenant Colonel Maurice D. Welty, assigned as a student in the infantry school tank section.

"Camay really helped me to have A Bride Complexion"

SAYS THIS BEAUTIFUL LOUISIANA BRIDE

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
I was proud of my "bride complexion" on my wedding day. And I count on Camay to care for that complexion always. It is my favorite aid to beauty.
Sincerely,
(Signed) CONSUELO M. PECK
(Mrs. Herbert R. Peck, Jr.)
February 4, 1937

OLD NEW ORLEANS—famous for lovely women—is the home of this enchanting bride. Blue-eyed, dark-haired, with a skin like rose petals—her beauty is romantic as her birthplace. She has lived much abroad, studying music in Paris and Berlin. "And wherever I go," she writes, "Camay goes with me. I count on it for complexion care."

A wise as well as a charming lady. Why not let your complexion, too, benefit by Camay's tender care? For Camay's fragrant lather is kind to the most sensitive type of skin. Gently, thoroughly, those millions of tiny Camay bubbles reach down to the dirt-laden pores—to leave your skin cleansed, soothed, refreshed. You can see your skin grow clear, finer-textured. You can feel the new softness and smoothness that Camay brings you.

No miracle, this—unless it's Camay's extra mildness. For that is one important part of Camay's beauty "magic." Camay has been shown by scientific tests to be definitely, provably milder than all other leading toilet soaps. And how important that is in complexion care! Prove it for yourself. Order half a dozen cakes from your dealer today. The Camay way to beauty is so simple—the price so low. Follow this lovely bride's advice, and do justice to your own complexion.

TRACKLESS TROLLEYS FOR ENTIRE SYSTEM URGED BY HARTSFIELD

Suburban Line Approved by City Council Committee; Paving Urged.

Hope that Atlanta will have trackless trolleys over the entire city as a solution to a great part of its traffic problem was expressed yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield as the public works committee of city council gave its approval to the plan of the Georgia Power Company to install the new type trolley-buses on lines to East Point, College Park and Hapeville by May.

The mayor said he had observed trackless trolleys in other cities and was impressed by the manner in which they facilitated movement of traffic on crowded streets.

Jackson Dick, Georgia Power Company official, told the committee that the proposal to substitute the trolley-buses for street cars between Atlanta and Hapeville, College Park and East Point, "is the first of a series of modernization plans being made by the company." He estimated substitution for this new line alone would cost approximately $400,000.

Change Sanctioned.
The public works committee, of which Councilman George Lyle is chairman, gave its sanction to a change in the proposed routing of the suburban line. The power company now plans to make a loop by going from Marietta street down Broad to Mitchell and thence to Forsyth and on to Trinity, across the Peters street bridge to Whitehall and thence to Lee street by Gordon street. The return would be made by the same route to Forsyth street and then on to Marietta and Broad.

The plan to use Spring street and the Union Station plaza for an out-trip over Forsyth street was abandoned because the company was not allowed use of the plaza by a railroad company. The petition and the proposed change will be brought up in council Monday.

A plea for the improvement of streets and sidewalks in negro sections as well as over the entire city was voiced by Mayor Hartsfield.

The mayor urged that dilapidated sidewalks in negro districts be con-

Sherman Sales Weak Outside of Atlanta

General William Tecumseh Sherman has been very far in his second march through Georgia outside the city of Atlanta, it was learned from postoffice employees yesterday.

General Sherman appears with General Grant and Sheridan on a three-cent stamp, subject of a flare of protest from various organizations.

To date some 125,000 have been sold of 600,000 ordered through the Atlanta postoffice for the state. Of the number sold 90 per cent have been pushed over the counter in Atlanta, sales in the smaller towns being practically nil.

On or about April 1 another batch of 600,000 stamps will arrive to be placed on sale, this time of General Robert E. Lee and General Stonewall Jackson, according to Postmaster Leon Livingston. They will be first issued in Washington on March 23, will go on general sale March 24 there, but are not expected to arrive here until about a week later.

demned and the landlords and property owners be forced to construct new and usable sidewalks. He said many traffic deaths are being caused by negroes who are forced to walk in the streets for lack of sidewalks.

"Condition Disgraceful."
"This condition in our negro sections is disgraceful," he declared. "For years there have been sidewalks in many of these sections which have completely washed away."

Clarke Donaldson, chief of construction, told the committee that his department is going to require more money in order to properly repair and pave streets throughout the city. Donaldson said $10,000 is needed at once for use in paving streets where the construction is being done by WPA labor. The Works Progress Administration supplies a part of the material and the labor while the city furnishes the remainder of the material and the equipment.

"This work is now almost completely stopped because of lack of funds," the construction chief asserted. He added that his department needs $50,000 for the purchase of asphalt and materials for other streets in the city.

"The pavement on the Washington street viaduct has got to be replaced too," he said, estimating this cost at $7,500. "For several years now we have repaired holes in the pavement on this viaduct but the pavement is so bad it must be entirely replaced if this street is to remain a principal thoroughfare."

The construction chief said he is working on plans for obtaining state highway department aid in maintaining some of the state highways which run through the city.

The public works committee also approved resolutions by Councilman John A. White, Jr., in efforts to obtain rights of way for straightening Ponce de Leon avenue at Peachtree street on the corner nearest the Georgian Terrace hotel, and for resurfacing Peachtree road from the Peachtree Christian church to Brookwood station, and for widening Peachtree at Tenth as well as widening Twelfth street between Peachtree and Juniper streets.

DEMOCRATS SPEND $349,025 IN 2 MONTHS

Contributions Total $174,025; G. O. P. Committee Cuts Deficit by $57,800.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—The Democratic National Committee reported today it took in $174,025 in the first two months of the year and spent $349,025.

The Republican National Committee cut down its deficit by around $47,000, receiving $100,415 and disbursing $42,979.

The reports were filed with South Trimble, clerk of the house.

Heading the list of Republican contributors was Alf M. Landon, of Topeka, the party's defeated presidential candidate, with a contribution of $1,000.

The Democrats made $73,133 on the sale of their book of the party convention in Philadelphia and $4,000 out of the testimonial dinner recently given James A. Farley, national chairman.

The Republican party reported $912,149 in unpaid obligations at the end of February and the Democrats, $490,185.

KENNER ASKS WAR ON UNETHICAL ADS

Business Bureau Executive Says False Display in Newspapers Is Small.

CHICAGO, March 11.—(AP)—H. J. Kenner, president of the Better Business Bureau of New York, today urged establishment of a $1,000,000 national fund to combat unethical and false advertising at a meeting of the Chicago Federated Advertising Club.

While only five per cent of advertisements placed in newspapers and magazines by various industries was false, Kenner said his plan would help eliminate them entirely.

"I recommend," he said, in speaking of the fund, "that one-fifth of one per cent of each national advertising appropriation in the country be contributed, and that some proportionate share of their gross advertising revenues be provided by the media of the United States."

POPE PARTICIPATES IN LENGTHY DEBATE

Pius, Rapidly Recovering, Greeted by Cardinals, Prelates at Church Session.

VATICAN CITY, March 11.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI, brought rapidly recovering from his illness, brought joy to high church dignitaries today by actively participating in a plenary session of ecclesiastical affairs of the Oriental church.

Twenty-six cardinals, an equal number of prelates and secretaries, greeted the Holy Father in an ante-chamber, to the papal apartment.

These—representing the congregations of propagation of the faith, extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs, and the Oriental church—seated themselves in uncanopied thrones—meaning the Pontiff himself would preside.

The Pontiff remained throughout the session, lasting one hour and 15 minutes, for discussion of the church program in Ethiopia. He gave approval to a plan for appointing an apostolic delegate to Addis Ababa with the title of archbishop.

SALZBURGER MEETING.
SAVANNAH, Ga., March 11.—The members and friends of the Georgia Salzburger Society will gather in annual session at Ebenezer Friday, Rev. C. A. Linn, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Ascension, will deliver the principal address of the day.

$300 Tax Exemption on Furniture, Rivers-Sponsored, Voted in Senate

Companion Homestead Bill on Calendar for Today; Social Security Grants To Counties Barred by Board in Washington.

The Rivers' sponsored proposed constitutional amendment exempting household and kitchen furniture up to $300 from taxation was passed by the senate yesterday and that body prepared to take up today another Rivers' proposal, providing for a homestead exemption up to $2,500.

There was some talk in the senate that the homestead exemption might be reduced to $1,500.

Informal of the action on the $300 exemption plan, Governor Rivers said: "These two exemption proposals are essential to the program we are inaugurating."

Approved by House.
The Governor previously had appeared before the assembly and urged adoption of the amendments. Both already have been approved by the house. If the senate approves the homestead exemption the two amendments will be ready for the voters. They are to be submitted in the June 8 general election.

Meanwhile, another phase of the Rivers' program received a setback when an announcement was made by the social security board in Washington that no grants could be made to counties to carry on a social security program until the constitutional amendment, already approved by the assembly, is approved by the people on June 8. The Governor had hoped to obtain immediate grants.

Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. announced in Washington that surplus commodities would continue to be distributed to the needy in Georgia and in Atlanta.

Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator, said food, clothing and other necessities representing a total valuation in excess of $11,500,000 had been distributed to needy unemployed in Georgia by the surplus commodity division of FERA and WPA since the beginning of this phase of the relief program in October, 1933.

The figures were shown in a summary of activities submitted to Miss Shepperson by R. H. Riner, director, surplus commodity division of the Works Progress Administration of Georgia.

Items of Report.
The detailed report showed relief clients of the counties and cities and inmates of public institutions had received 61,838,398 pounds of food valued at $7,469,290; 2,698,056 garments valued at $1,618,853; 1,515,390 articles of house furnishings valued at $1,393,287 and miscellaneous items valued at $1,021,238.

It was pointed out that the distribution of commodities is financed by the federal agencies with the assistance of counties and cities. The local governmental units, as a rule, provide warehouse facilities and vehicles.

The food products were furnished by the surplus commodity division of the Department of Agriculture. The garments, house furnishings and other items were made in WPA sewing rooms and work shops.

The monthly average of cases eligible for assistance was 65,000, representing 275,000 persons. At the peak of relief activities 120,000 cases, representing 510,000 persons, were on the local lists for commodity service. From this point the case load ranged downward to 35,140, representing 140,000 persons.

At present the inmates of 111 state and local institutions, almshouses, orphanages, asylums, hospitals and homes for the aged, are receiving the service. Distribution also is being made to 107 schools and 40 nursery

Salary Buyers Bill Is Passed by Senate

The senate yesterday passed unanimously a bill to permit cities to license and otherwise regulate salary buyers.

It must now go to the house. Senator Dave Atkinson, coauthor of the bill with Senator Millican, of Atlanta, said the measure had been recommended by the Chatham county grand jury.

The senate also passed unanimously a house bill by the Muscogee county delegation and Representative Sanders, of Harris county, to add the roads from Columbus to West Point and Columbus to Fort Benning to the highway mileage map. The highway commission would have to designate the roads as a state route before they could draw money from the gasoline tax.

schools, to provide lunches for children from needy families.

Following the Gainesville and Cordele tornadoes and the Rome and Atlanta basin floods, commodities were distributed through the welfare agencies to disaster sufferers in those areas.

INDIANAN SURRENDERS ON SLUGGING CHARGES

INDIANAPOLIS, March 11.—(AP) Joel A. Baker, deposed recently as Marion county welfare director, surrendered today shortly after his indictment in connection with the slugging March 1 of Wayne Coy, state welfare director.

Baker provided $2,000 bond and was released. He made no statement concerning the attack on Coy. Baker was indicted jointly with his political associate, Peter A. Canella.

Canella is said to have struck Coy as they stood near the state senate chamber. Coy attributed the attack to opponents of a bill which would give the state welfare board greater control over county boards.

OKLAHOMA COTTON GROWING 'WEAKER'

Texas Product Also Deteriorating, Noted Merchant Believes.

HOUSTON, Texas, March 11.—(AP) W. J. Clayton, one of the world's foremost cotton merchants, believes Texas and Oklahoma cotton has deteriorated in recent years.

Clayton came back yesterday from a 15,000-mile air tour of Latin America, where he visited Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Paraguay and Peru. He stopped briefly in Mexico. In all these countries, he said, cotton production was tending upward.

Cotton production there, however, was less of a price factor than United States government control measures, he said. Texas, he pointed out, still says, and soil erosion funds might well be spent for improving the staple in the states affected. He suggested that to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace last autumn.

BAKED NO MORE MY LADY—

Let Merita
make your cakes

MRS. S. R. DULL SAYS: If you're like most women, baking a cake is very much like this with you. First, the idea: "I believe I'll bake a cake"—then a day or two to find time. Then the recipe: "Oh, what recipe will I use?" Then checking over supplies to see that you have all the necessary ingredients—shopping for those you need. Then mixing and baking and worry and work! And then, even if the cake is successful, you're pretty sure to be tired and cross when the family comes home.

Ten years ago there might have been an excuse for that—even five years ago. But today you can do as millions of other women do. Just say "Merita" to your grocer and, presto, the hours of worry, work and planning fall away and in your hand is a cake made by your favorite recipe—made with just the things you would use—rich milk, eggs, butter, and at a cost you couldn't possibly duplicate. Try this magic way of baking a cake. Your family will be ever so grateful, for they will get cake more often and, may we not say, cake you'll be proud to serve.

FRUIT DAINTY

Place a square of Merita Pound Cake in a tall composite (sherbet glass). On this place a half peach. To one cup of fruit juice from the can of peaches, add two tablespoons of lemon juice, four tablespoons sugar and let cook over slow flame to a syrup. Color a delicate pink. Pour over the peach and cake. Top with whipped cream and a cherry.

CLYDE SMITH TO BEGIN PRISON TERM AT ONCE; PAPERS FORWARDED

Captured Bunco Artist To Be Brought to Atlanta Penitentiary.

Clyde Smith, escaped bunco artist, arrested Wednesday in Washington, D. C., will be sent directly to a federal penitentiary to begin service of his five-year sentence, imposed in Atlanta federal court six years ago. Smith jumped bond of $25,000.

Commitment papers were forwarded to Washington yesterday afternoon, closing the case in so far as the Atlanta court is concerned. The papers were forwarded by United States Marshal Charles H. Cox by air mail yesterday for execution in Washington.

It was learned here that Smith will probably be incarcerated in the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

High praise was accorded postoffice inspectors for the apprehension of Smith by United States district attorney Lawrence A. Camp, particularly commendation going to Postoffice Inspector Herbert Graham, of New York, who has been on Smith's trail most of the six years. He is the man responsible also for the closing

Vandenbush Admits List of Bank 'Jobs'

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 11.—(AP)—Merle Vandenbush, known to federal agents as "Public Rat No. 1," unexpectedly pleaded guilty with two accomplices today to the last of a long series of crimes—robbery of the Katoomba Bank of $17,600 February 25.

He was remanded for sentence with Anthony and George Rera, his accomplices.

Vandenbush and Anthony Rera face prison terms of 70 years each as a maximum. George Rera, cousin of Anthony and a Bronx garage man without previous record, can be sentenced to from 15 to 30 years.

No date was set for sentencing by Justice Nolan.

of the net about Benjamin R. Bradley, convicted head of the American Bond & Share Corporation, together with local inspectors. The local inspectors were responsible also for the roundup of all 24 defendants in the Katoomba charges, trial of which is expected next month, after trailing several, one of whom was found in England and deported to this country.

Smith was convicted here in 1931 for the wiretapping race horse swindle of Roy Martin, Columbus (Ga.) theater man. Martin lost $90,000.

Smith appealed and, shortly after his appeal was denied, disappeared. The company in which the bond was written failed shortly after the disappearance of Smith and the government never collected the forfeited bond.

PROGRESS FETE OPENS AT STATESBORO TODAY

George Fort Milton and Other Notable Speakers Listed on Program.

STATESBORO, Ga., March 11.—(AP)—The South Georgia Teachers' College was prepared today to begin its third annual "Georgia progress days" here tomorrow.

Public officials and business leaders from all parts of the state are expected to attend the sessions, which will continue through Saturday.

The theme of the conference, "Georgia's Wealth and Poverty," will be presented in addresses by George Fort Milton, editor of the Chattanooga News, and Dr. William T. Couch Jr., director of the University of North Carolina Press, and group discussions.

Milton will speak on "A Program of Rural Rehabilitation in Georgia." Brief presentation of Georgia's problems will be made by these guest speakers:

Dr. Thomas F. Abernethy, director of the Georgia Department of Health; Dr. Charles H. Herty, research chemist; Dr. J. T. Wheeler, University of Georgia College of Agriculture; Dean Thomas Askew, of Armstrong Junior College, of Savannah; Miss Gay Shepperson, state director of the Works Progress Administration; H. W. Caldwell, of LaGrange, Ga.; Henry McIntosh, editor of the Albany Herald, and Tom Wisdom, state auditor.

Dr. Thomas F. Abernethy, director of the Georgia Department of Health, will present a paper and exhibition of charts which will illustrate evidence of the state's "Wealth and Poverty."

Council recently agreed to rope off a street, but opposition is expected from residents and this will be brought up for discussion.

Seminole County Completes Plans For Vote on Judicial Reform Plan

Election Officials at Donaldsonville Prepare for Ballot March 19.

DONALDSONVILLE, Ga., March 11.—(AP)—Somewhat surprised at national interest in their plans, Seminole county election officials completed arrangements today for the first vote in the nation March 19 on President Roosevelt's judicial plan.

"I have been swamped with letters, much to my surprise," said Joe Johnson Jr., 25-year-old farmer and chairman of the Seminole County Democratic committee.

"Letters come from everywhere, but mostly from Georgia. Some of the folks," he said with a grin, "even want a ballot to cast, but of course we can't have that."

Johnson said interest in Seminole county, an agricultural county in extreme southwest Georgia, was about as great as it was in 1936 when the county held an unofficial "presidential preference primary" with Roosevelt and then Governor Talmadge as candidates. Roosevelt won, 691 to 120. Talmadge, a critic of the New Deal, had been mentioned at that time by his followers as a possible presidential candidate, "and we thought we would put him in the race, whether he liked it or not," said Johnson.

"I am very frank to say," said Johnson, originator of the judicial election plan, "that I am an admirer of the President's, but this is going to be a fair election. Every registered voter, whether Democrat or Republican, white or colored, will be able to vote. There are 1,192 registered voters. I would judge there are 75 or 100 Republicans in the county."

"But there is opposition to the President's plan in our county outside of the Republicans. The lawyers don't like the reorganization idea a bit. And the brother of our Congressman Gene Cox, who is leading opposition to the plan in the house, lives in Donaldsonville. He is R. L. Cox."

"Of course, I don't know how the county will vote. But if the President's plan wins out, I think Seminole county will go down in history as the first county in the nation to express itself."

Johnson said most letters expressed approval of the election idea, but differed as to merits of the President's plan.

Polls will open at 8 a. m. and close at 3 p. m., central standard time, everywhere except Donaldsonville, where the voting will continue until 6 p. m.

Johnson said "everybody in town was talking about the President's court plan, and I got interested in it. One day we had an all-day powwow of businessmen, farmers and county officials, and decided to call the election. The county Democratic committee was called to act and it approved the idea unanimously."

Other members of the committee are J. M. Cross, Iron City; Tobe Earnest, Spring Creek; John Howard, Rock Pond, and Walter Atkinson, Steam Mill.

County Ordinary Glover Garwood called the election but, at the committee's suggestion, made it a wide-open affair for all registered voters, rather than for Democrats alone. After the election, ballots will be sealed and then, after 30 days, examined at the court house, at which time any citizen may check them if he or she desires.

COLLINS ADDRESSES TEACHERS IN WILKES

WASHINGTON, Ga., March 11.—Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, spoke here Thursday to a joint meeting of Washington and Wilkes county teachers. Collins will speak at the annual banquet of the Business Men's Club in Fitzgerald for the Fitzgerald and Ben Hill county teachers.

H. M. Tarpley and W. T. Calloway are the respective superintendents of Washington and Wilkes county, and W. W. Stancil and Newton Watkins are the respective superintendents of Fitzgerald and Ben Hill county.

Dr. Collins will join the legislative committee of the general assembly Saturday on their inspection tour of the Okefenokee swamp.

Wood May Give Clues To Origin of Mounds

MACON, Ga., March 11.—(AP)—Dr. A. R. Kelly, archaeologist in charge of the WPA project excavating Indian mounds, said here he believed the entering wedge into the history and pre-history of southern archaeology would be made through a study of tree formations. Called the science of dendro-chronology, Dr. Kelly said this science is being applied to the problem of ascertaining definite dates of habitation of the Indian mounds near here.

Tree sections supplied by landowners and lumber yards, and pieces of wood from historic buildings are being used, he said. The dendro-chronology of southern trees, Dr. Kelly declared, would then be compared with wood formations in charcoal and charred timbers from the mounds.

Survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Emmett White, Mrs. Buck Oliver and Mrs. Hilliard Kitchens; three sons, Bob Pilkington, of Lanett; Lewis Pilkington, of Atlanta, and Tom Pilkington, of Los Angeles, Cal.; three grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Mattie Woodruff, of Harris county.

Interment was in the Lanett cemetery.

RAIL LINE ASKS I. C. C. TO LIFT RECEIVERSHIP

Savannah and Atlanta Officials Report on Company's Finances.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—Officials of the Savannah & Atlanta railway offered testimony today to support its application to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to lift the receivership under which the company has operated since 1921.

The opening session of the hearing was concerned entirely with statistical testimony by John L. Strong, treasurer, on the company's financial status.

Charles E. Gay, of Savannah, and other officers of the company said in their application a million dollars would be required to reorganize the railway. They applied to the Reconstruction Corporation for a loan to finance the plan.

Officers proposed the issuance of 12,500 shares of preferred stock at $100 par value, and said the common stock, whose par was unfixed, would not exceed 10,000 shares.

The company abandoned an earlier reorganization plan in 1929, and refilled it in modified form last year.

They prepared figures for I. C. C. examiners R. T. Boyden and C. A. Beard and show the railway's financial difficulties have been cleared, and that its margin of profit justifies ending the receivership.

Oklahoma Solons War on Free Ducats

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 11.—(AP)—A theater owner sent 117 Oklahoma legislators bright yellow passes today printed on cardboard eight inches wide and 10 inches long—and did he start a rumpus!

"They asked for them," said T. B. Noble Jr., the theater operator. "We didn't," chorused house members. Some laughed, some fumed, some shouted "publicity stuff!"

Senators got none. Noble said they hadn't asked for any.

Told house members denied requesting passes, Noble said: "I have a letter on my desk from Miss Hope Smith secretary to a house committee, asking for passes."

Miss Smith said she met Noble in a restaurant, gave her a couple of passes, and when she laughingly told him "not to forget members of the legislature," he asked for a list of them.

State Senator Deroy Burns introduced a bill to make it a felony for legislators to accept or use passes for any form of amusement.

U. S. ATTORNEYS BACK SANTEE-COOPER PLAN

Federal Officials Claim Project Would Not Take Other Firms' Customers.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 11.—(AP)—Attorneys for the government sought to develop today that the proposed PWA-sponsored Santee-Cooper project would take few customers from established power companies operating in South Carolina as hearings continued on the disputed hydro-electric development.

Trial of the case in which three privately owned utility companies seek to permanently restrain the Public Works Administration from financing construction of the proposed $37,500,000 Santee-Cooper project, began yesterday before Federal Judge J. Lyles Glenn.

The Pulse of the People

The columns of The Constitution are always open to the expressions of the public, regardless of the opinion expressed. All communications will be subject to editing, and none will be returned unless postage is inclosed.

HOLDS CHECKS ON COURT EXIST

Editor Constitution: An article written by J. A. Darsey, Griffin, Ga., March 7, urging a check on the supreme court, is especially interesting, inasmuch as most of us should be familiar with the United States constitution and its laws. If Mr. Darsey will read the constitution of the United States carefully, he will see there is a check on the supreme court as well as the other two branches of government. Namely:

1. John Marshall saw to it that there would be no politics in that branch of our government, by passing a law to the effect that supreme court judges are to serve for life.

2. All of the laws of the constitution are to be handed down by the court (as the laws stand); the judges can only interpret the laws as already written into the constitution.

3. Naturally the United States supreme court is checked right there. In other words, the supreme court's opinion cannot be their own, but they are guided entirely by the laws of the people's constitution of these United States, as it now stands. So the supreme court is checked as well as the other two branches of our government.

LAURA C. KILBURN, Atlanta, Ga., March 10, 1937.

ASKS FOR STRICT ENFORCEMENT

Editor Constitution: I have been a constant reader of your great paper for nearly 30 years. The Georgia legislature is to be congratulated on its noble stand on prohibition and if our local enforcement officers would be more strict in performing their duties, and our representatives in Washington take steps to have the federal government prevent the shipping of whisky into dry territory, our present laws will be satisfactory.

President Roosevelt and the Democratic party are committed to the protection of dry territory. Atlanta's mayor is making every effort to have clean government and Atlanta will show the balance of the state the way, and make Georgia a law-abiding state. Georgians are doing their own thinking on these vital issues, and are not being influenced by the other states in the union. There is not room in Georgia for a saloon on every corner and at every crossroads.

N. G. SLAUGHTER, Athens, Ga., March 10, 1937.

URGES CAMPAIGN AGAINST NOISE

Editor Constitution: It was with interest that I read your editorial yesterday in regard to "Noise Nuisance" in the city of Atlanta, and I wish to compliment you on the stand your paper is taking. I am a resident of a hotel near three parking lots and from 9:30 in the evening until 12:30 and sometimes as late as 2 o'clock, it is almost impossible to sleep on account of the blowing of horns and the racing of engines.

The manager of the hotel and other establishments nearby have made complaints to the mayor, chief of the police committee and to the chief of police, but we have never been able to get any co-operation in stopping this unnecessary nuisance. The people of Atlanta will be indebted to you if you will wage a campaign against the unnecessary blowing of horns and racing of engines inside the city.

PUPIL KILLS TEACHER

MOSCOW, March 11.—(UP)—Plunked in Russian, Elia Ageenko, pupil in the village of Zavidovo near Kalinin, loaded an ancient rifle with steel pin-game balls today and killed his teacher, Zola Peshekhonva.

ITALY TO AID BELGIUM IN CASE OF INVASION

Rome Reaffirms Her Pledge To Abide by 1925 Locarno Treaty.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 11.—(AP)—Italy informed Belgium today she will guarantee Belgium against aggression by any other nation without requiring the Brussels government to give a similar guarantee to Rome.

Under the 1925 Locarno treaty for western European security, France and Germany agreed to commit no aggression in Belgium and Great Britain and Italy gave assurances they would see that the accord was enforced.

Germany, in remilitarizing the Rhineland last March, denounced the Locarno pact. Britain and France came forward with new declarations that they would maintain Belgium's independence late last year, and Italy added hers today.

German foreign office sources indicated in Berlin today that the reich would make no reservations concerning a new general western European peace agreement if "one-sided" military alliances are ended.

In that case, they said, Reichsfuehrer Hitler would be willing to guarantee the independence of Belgium, Switzerland and The Netherlands. Their remarks were in connection with German preparation of a reply to Great Britain's note of last year on a possible new western European accord.

Presumably one of Germany's objections is to the Franco-Belgium military agreement for mutual defense. Another pact which Germany dislikes is the mutual assistance treaty between France and Soviet Russia.

TWO WOMEN WITNESSES AGAINST RACKET AIDED

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, special rackets prosecutor, said late today that two women, who testified against Charles (Lucky) Luciano in the vice trial in which Dewey sent Luciano to jail, had been sent to Europe with funds raised by "public spirited citizens" after their lives were threatened. He declined to disclose who furnished the funds.

His statement came after Moses Polakoff, attorney for Luciano, applied for a new trial, offering affidavits of five women witnesses who said that they had given false testimony about Luciano's ring and that later they were given extra attention by the prosecutors. Dewey said no public funds were used but that in face of the threats against the women he would not have hesitated to use them to get the women to safety.

INJURED WORKER—Twenty-four WPA workers were injured and narrowly escaped death when a bus-truck in which they were riding to work in the Santa Monica mountains swerved suddenly on a curve and turned over, pinning many of the men beneath its weight. One of the eight seriously injured is shown being removed from the scene of the accident.

RESORT WEAR—White grosgrain silk makes the shallow crown, and black leghorn straw makes the broad brim of this capeline shape intended for shade duty and resort wear. Black ribbon bands the crown and green grosgrain motifs trim it. The model is from Enely Soeurs.

SPANISH REFUGEES—Resignation to war yet utter weariness of war seems to be pictured on the faces of the two women in this picture, who are refugees in Madrid from Malaga, the Spanish seaport city on the Mediterranean which was recently captured by the insurgent troops of General Franco.

Parker near Brooklandville, Md., just outside of Baltimore, to which the Duke of Windsor may bring Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson to live after their marriage, when they will come to this country. According to a copyrighted story, the Duke is said to have an option on the residence, which is near Mrs. Simpson's birthplace.

ICKES APPROVES FUND FOR BUZZARDS' ROOST

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes approved today a $150,000 requisition by Greenwood county, S. C., for preliminary work on its $2,500,000 public power project at Buzzards Roost, held up for more than two years by litigation instituted by the Duke Power Company. PWA officials said recent modification of an injunction permitted the grant.

S. E. C. 'MAY TRAMPLE RIGHTS' TO GET FACTS

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—The securities and exchange commission ruled today that "certain rights may be trampled on" to get at the facts in its stock manipulation case against W. E. Hutton & Company. Edward C. Johnson, trial examiner, made the ruling after an impassioned plea by David W. Peck, defense counsel, that commission attorneys be restricted from questioning witnesses on what they did with profits realized on Atlas Tack Corporation stock.

SHRINE HEAD TALKS

Webster Tells of Fraternal Order's Hospitals.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 11.—(AP)—The Shrine Directors' Association of North America selected Charlotte, N. C., today as the 1938 convention city. The meeting will be held March 23-25.

Addressing the assembled delegates, Imperial Potentate Clyde L. Webster, whose home is in Detroit, said that the Shrine maintains 15 hospitals that have a waiting list of nearly 2,000 crippled children. He added the fraternal order could get several more hospitals without cost "if we had the money with which to operate them." He said the Shrine hospitals over the country had cured about 62,000 children.

WIFE, HUSBAND TALK SUICIDE, AND END LIVES

Spouse Persuades Mate To Let Her Join Him in Death.

PORTSMOUTH, Va., March 11.—(UP)—J. D. McCue, retired sergeant major of the United States marine corps, and his wife decided to commit suicide today.

They sat in their little home here and discussed it. McCue, 61 years old, wanted his wife to live. She said no, that they had been married for 18 years and loved each other dearly and that if he went she was going alone.

McCue was persuaded so they turned on the gas and both lay on the floor. McCue penned a farewell note and they joked about the good times they would miss this summer as the deadly gas got in its work.

Neighbors smelled the gas. Police broke in and found both dead. A note McCue wrote to his attorney said:

"Hello. Well, Nell and John are going down the long trail together. No, we are not crazy. Nell just loves me dearly and has for 18 years. I pleaded with her to let me go alone but she would not listen. We planned all this a long time ago. We are lying on the floor kidding each other about the good times we are going to miss this summer. But yes I say dragging a cripple..."

Nazi Envoy Fails To 'Honor' Hitler

London, March 11.—(AP)—

Joachim von Ribbentrop, German envoy to London, amazed his fellow ambassadors Thursday by shaking hands with King George VI.

The other diplomats at a Buckingham palace tea party had expected von Ribbentrop to do like he has done on his two previous appearances at Buckingham palace, give the Nazi salute.

Instead, he and Frau von Ribbentrop emulated the other ambassadors, stood in line, shook hands with both the King and Queen, and stayed for tea.

Since von Ribbentrop needs British good will for his nation's campaign for the return of colonies, there was some speculation that Berlin might have ordered an exception for him. However, a German spokesman denied this, saying there was a different rule for small occasions like today's.

MOONEY PARDON ASKED IN PETITION TO F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(UP)—Members of congress tonight were being asked to sign a petition requesting that President Roosevelt make an immediate investigation of the conviction of Tom Mooney, convicted for the Preparedness Day parade bombing in San Francisco.

The petition, which already bore a dozen signatures, cited the investigation that President Wilson launched when Mooney was first convicted as a precedent.

Those seeking Mooney's eventual release said that they hoped to obtain more than a hundred signatures before the document is presented to the President.

Is the GAS Thermostat, which makes wasted heat impossible

Hundreds of those who enjoy constant hot water service automatically with Gas have been surprised to find that their hot water costs them no more, gallon for gallon, and that the convenience of having it instantly available day and night, without trouble and without preparation, costs them nothing.

For this they must thank, in a large measure, the Gas Thermostat. For this simple, rugged, unfailing device makes impossible the waste of clumsy, less convenient methods, and those savings pay for the convenience. The Thermostat, entirely self-contained, turns on the gas burner of your automatic gas water heater the instant you have used as much as several quarts of water. And instantly, when enough water has been heated to take its place, it turns off the gas. There can be no waste of heat, and there can be no failure to supply at the touch of a faucet all the hot water you need.

That's part of the Magic behind the hot water faucet.

There's more magic in our prices and terms, which lets you own the most modern type of automatic gas water heater before you realize that you have been paying for it. A telephone call will bring full particulars. Ask about our special trade-in allowance for your old water heater.

WETS IN TENNESSEE ARE MUSTERING FORCES TO REPEAL DRY LAW

Inability to Enforce Dry Act
To Be Chief Point of Battle
When Solons Reconvene.

NASHVILLE, March 11.—(UP)—Heartened by Alabama's abrogation of her 20-year-old prohibition statutes by popular vote, Tennessee leaders mustered their forces with renewed vigor today and girded for a victorious fight to legalize liquor in the Volunteer state when the legislature reconvenes May 3 after a 60-day recess.

Should Tennessee remain in the dry minority with four other states, it will be a virtual island state for the dry "delta" formed on the south border, bounded by the upper necks of Georgia and Mississippi. Action of Alabama and North Carolina in repealing their dry laws on a local option basis leaves Tennessee bounded by four wet states.

It is this isolated condition that wet leaders will emphasize in their fight for repeal. With legal liquor flowing in from all sides, prohibition will be unenforceable without approval of a staggering sum, they declare.

Two Bills Pending.

A local option, package store bill is pending in both houses, approved by the house liquor traffic committee and the senate temperance committee. Also pending is a bill to legalize light wines and another to call a referendum on the liquor question.

Signed by 17 members and advocated by Speaker Walter M. Haynes, Democrat, Winchester, the bill is expected to pass the house without difficulty.

In the upper chamber, the powerful Shelby (Memphis) delegation, not openly espousing the liquor measure, has promised to swing a majority for repeal if the result hinges only on two or three votes.

To Raise $4,000,000.
The pending bill is designed to raise between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 by taxing the "biggest business in Tennessee." It would subject distillers to a $1,000 annual privilege tax; $500 on wholesalers; and $250 on retail dealers.

Liquor could be merchandised in sealed packages only by licensed stores. Bar drinking would be permitted in private clubs with a bona fide membership of 50 or more and in reputable hotels having more than 100 rooms.

Under the local option feature liquor would be legalized in the state at large, with counties and municipalities privileged to exclude liquor in local referenda authorized on petition of 25 per cent of the registered voters.

Control would be supervised by a three-man state liquor board. The referendum bill was introduced by Representative H. C. Jackson, Democrat, Maury county. It would authorize a state-wide vote on repeal six days after passage of the act.

One of the most vigorous advocates of the repeal measure is Speaker of the House Walter M. (Pete) Haynes, who swung over to the wet ranks after long championing prohibition.

Recently addressing the Davidson County (Nashville) Young Democratic Club, Haynes said:

"The question is whether we will have a legalized traffic in the sunlight where it can be regulated and honestly controlled, or shall continue a bootleg system in Tennessee."

Dry States in Nation Surrounded by Wet Neighbors

Georgia stands almost alone among the dry states of the Union. The above map shows in black that Georgia, Mississippi and Tennessee in the south, Oklahoma and Kansas in the middle west are the only five states in the nation which have not thrown overboard their dry status. Georgia is practically surrounded by wet states as are the other four remaining dry commonwealths.

liquor situation, Tennessee will be in for at least two more years of bootlegging, racketeering and hijacking," he said.

Although not a cent of state revenue is derived from the sale of liquor in Tennessee, 1,476 bootleggers have paid $26 for federal licenses to retail liquor in the state and 226 persons have paid the $100 wholesale license to immunize themselves against federal prosecution.

REPEALISTS HEARTENED BY ALABAMA VICTORY

(Huntsville), borders Tennessee, but three touch dry Mississippi. They are Mobile, Washington and Colbert.

Opening of state stores, probably before April 1, awaits Governor Bibb Graves' proclamation of the election results.

In line with most forecasts, Jefferson (Birmingham), Mobile and Montgomery, the state's three biggest population centers, returned large repeal majorities and the north Alabama rural counties gave prohibition heavy margins.

Indicated Wet Counties.
Other indicated wet counties were: Baldwin, Barbour, Bullock, Colbert, Covington, Crenshaw, Dallas, Escambia, Etowah, Geneva, Greene, Henry, Houston, Lee, Lowndes, Madison, Monroe, Perry, Pike, Russell and Washington.

Generally north Alabama lived up to its reputation as the dry stronghold. Only Jefferson, Madison, Colbert and Etowah were certain for repeal of the 33 counties in the northern half of the state.

Twenty of the 34 south Alabama counties were in the repeal column, including all five of those touching wet Florida.

Margeno, counted safe in the wet column, switched to dry ranks by 12 votes, Sheriff T. W. Shields said, on the final tabulation. Previously, the county's complete vote had been reported as 813 for repeal, 801 against.

The sheriff said the final tabulation reversed these figures, giving 801 for repeal, 813 against. The official count may determine the final result.

Governor Bibb Graves, whose official proclamation next week will be legalization machinery in motion, dashed hopes of convicted prohibition law violators with the statement there would be no wholesale release of such prisoners from the state penitentiary.

In Birmingham, where prohibition convictions have been difficult for several years, Circuit Judge Robert J. Wheeler ordered 10 beer cases dropped, and authorities intimated 125 others would not be brought to trial.

Tax experts have estimated annual revenue from legal liquor at $2,500,000.

BOARD TO SPEED ESTABLISHMENT OF STORES
MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 11.—(AP)—The Alabama alcoholic beverage control board said today "every effort is being exerted to expedite" establishment of state-owned liquor stores in "wet" counties and issuance of beer licenses.

Regarding an opening date for any liquor stores the board said merely: "The board has no announcement." Private sources, however, have fixed April 1 as possibly the earliest date that a store can be put into operation.

MISSISSIPPI BORDERED BY 3 WET STATES
JACKSON, Miss., March 11.—(AP)—As Alabama partially discarded its prohibition laws today, Mississippi became virtually a dry island, surrounded by three wet neighbors.

Only Tennessee on the northern boundary remained in the dry column to keep Mississippi company.

Governor Hugh White, a militant "dry," studied the Alabama returns today, shook his head and offered no comment on Alabama.

The Governor has already declared that "something must be done" about the whiskey situation in Mississippi. Violations, he said, "are rampant in many counties," and with Alabama joining the wet column of states, the situation in Mississippi becomes more acute as far as enforcement is concerned.

Thirty-two of Mississippi's 82 counties border on wet states. Twelve of the number border on Alabama, 10 on Louisiana, and 10 on Arkansas.

Governor White obtained authority from the legislature several months ago to use the national guard in enforcing the prohibition and gambling laws in Mississippi in counties where local officers signify they are unable to cope with the situation.

One dry foray has been made by the guard—that in Rankin county across the river from Jackson.

GRANT HAYES PASSES AT HOME IN DETROIT
Grant Hayes, 31, resident of Atlanta for many years until entering the government service two years ago to assist in a health survey, died yesterday in Detroit, where he was stationed.

CUMMINGS AIDE URGES COURT BILL AT HEARING

Jackson Says Division in Tribunal Impairs Prestige
Before Nation.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(UP)—Arguing that the supreme court is "impairing its functioning and prestige" by serious division, Robert H. Jackson, assistant attorney general, today urged the senate judiciary committee to approve President Roosevelt's court reorganization bill as the "only remedy."

Jackson appeared as the second administration witness at public hearings on the President's bill.

After he finished reading a 32-page statement committee members fired scores of questions at him. His answers were frank and there were no heated exchanges such as marked Attorney General Cummings' fencing with opponents of the court bill.

Jackson's "brief" for passage of Mr. Roosevelt's request for power to increase the supreme court membership to 15 was based on this logic:

1. The constitution places in congress the responsibility for the proper functioning of the supreme court. Congress helps select the justices; they must answer to congress for their behavior; the court's jurisdiction, except in certain cases, is outlined by congress; and congress has the "general" power to check the "over-reaching" of the court.

2. Legislation affecting the size of the supreme court is authorized by the constitution and validated by historical practice as a method of bringing the elective and non-elective branches of the government back into proper co-ordination.

3. The history of attempts to correct the court by constitutional amendment shows the impossibility of predicting the interpretation of the amendment. It may be possible, Jackson commented, "by more words to clarify words, but it is not possible by words to change a state of mind hostile to the exertion of governmental powers."

4. Judicial power over federal legislation "is expanding rapidly and assuming the nature of a veto."

5. The Federal judicial power is also "impairing state's rights."

6. The supreme court "functioning and prestige" is impaired by the apparent division in its ranks, as evidenced by recent split decisions.

"When the decision of crucial constitutional issues may turn on the death or illness of a single justice," Jackson said, "it would seem that our constitutional progress is governed by a blind fate instead of by human reason."

"Even government victories by a 5-4 decision are unsatisfactory. A state of the law which depends upon the continuance of a single life or upon the assumption that no justice will change his mind is not a satisfactory basis on which the government may enter into new fields for the exercise of its power."

This reference to split decisions gave Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, a chance to raise a point he made yesterday.

"Do you think the President's bill meets the objection to split decisions?" he asked Jackson.

"It gives no assurance that there will not be a division in the court," Jackson replied. "It doesn't interfere in any way with the independence of the justices. I think, however, that the bill will bring in a greater number of justices whose viewpoint is more in keeping with modern times."

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace announced tonight that he will speak at Richmond, Va., March 22 in favor of the President's program.

Elizabeth Favors Embroidered Gowns

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—Queen Elizabeth's coronation wardrobe will feature regal gowns of glittering lace, gold-embroidered satin and blues of many shades, the New York representative of a London dressmaker announced today.

The Queen has shown her preference for embroidered fabrics, pastel shades and soft fox furs in the wardrobe of more than two score gowns commanded from Norman Hartnell for the brilliant festivities surrounding the dual coronation.

For the glittering courts at which she will preside as Queen of England, she has selected one gown of gold leaf lace and another of heavy gold and silver cloque lace cut on simple lines with a draped neckline. A third is of ivory satin, embroidered with gold sequins and gold crystals.

Her evening gowns for the state banquets and festive dinners will be made in tones of blue, cyclamen and white—all shades which she likes. Rich furs are to trim her evening wraps.

BODYGUARD ASSIGNED TO MAYOR HARTSFIELD

has been inclined to take them lightly, but Chief Hornaby and the mayor's secretary, Joe Greig, are not so certain. They insisted upon assignment of a policeman to accompany the mayor about the city.

Most of the threats come from persons who have overindulged, it was said yesterday. City officials urged that it is highly illogical that a sane, sober person would take the trouble to annoy Mayor Hartsfield as many do.

At 1 o'clock yesterday morning the telephone rang in the mayor's home and a voice over the wire requested to speak to the mayor.

Hartsfield awoke and answered the phone—to receive a string of threats by a man evidently very much peeved.

"I'll come down there and break you in pieces," was the printable substance of the message to the mayor.

Friends of the mayor were inclined to think most of the late callers, and there have been more than the mayor has reported, an exasperated and angry with the mayor because they cannot buy beer and wine after midnight.

But, it can be safely concluded, these persons are already drunk or else they would not take it so hotly and probably their threats mean little, since they are likely to forget all about it next morning while ridding themselves of hangovers.

FEY SAYS HE'S CLEARED IN STARHMBERG ROW
VIENNA, March 11.—(AP)—Major Emil Fey, former vice-chancellor, announced tonight he had got full vindication in the Austrian officers' court of honor in a dispute with Prince Ernst Von Starhemberg.

The prince—head of the Fascist Heimwehr organization, a private army which has been declared illegal—was abroad, but his friends said he had informed his seconds he was not interested in the court's ruling and demands that a duel be fought.

SHANGHAI ORDERS OUT OFFICERS AS RESULT OF OLD TAX TROUBLE

Settlement Police Are Told To Shoot If Attacked by Chinese.

SHANGHAI, Friday, March 12.—(AP)—Heavy police guards were mobilized today and volunteer units were ordered to be "in readiness" following a quarrel between Chinese officials and the government of Shanghai's money international settlement.

The quarrel involves tax collections and jurisdiction over the so-called "outside roads" leading into Chinese-controlled territory from the settlement.

Settlement authorities closed the roads yesterday following repeated refusals of the Chinese to pay taxes which the foreign officials allege to be long overdue.

The secretary of the Chinese general city government of greater Shanghai delivered a formal verbal protest to the settlement officials today.

Mobs formed at the barricades across the disputed roads threatening to tear down the barriers. Settlement police had orders to shoot if the Chinese attacked.

In view of past bloody riots some foreigners living near the barricades were moving from their homes into hotels on the waterfront.

PARTY LEADERS ATTACK JAPANESE MINISTER

TOKYO, March 11.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Naito's explanation of Japan's new policy of friendship for China tonight drew the fire of two major party leaders and warnings to the government that it faces grave danger from all sides.

The diet listened in silence as Dr. Hiroshi Ashida, publisher and Seiyu leader, led the attack. Sato, making his second foreign policy speech in the parliament, was heckled frequently.

"We are at the momentous crossroads between peace and war," said Dr. Ashida, an English language newspaper.

Sato was greeted with laughter, when, discussing a Sino-Japanese deadlock, he said "if China rejects Japan's policy, we must wait patiently until China changes its attitude."

Yusuke Tsurumi, of the Minseitō, largest political party, joined in the attack on Sato.

Referring to relations with the United States, Tsurumi declared the most urgent issue was that of naval disarmament and what he called the "dangerous" situation in the Pacific.

PARLEY OPENS TODAY FOR FLOOD CONTROL

Representatives of 23 States To Meet in St. Louis; Tentative Plan Ready.

ST. LOUIS, March 11.—(AP)—A resolutions committee paved the way for a conference tomorrow of representatives of 23 "flood bowl" states by approving a comprehensive plan today for checking the destructive tendencies of the nation's rivers.

In tentative draft for submission to the conference, the committee set out these principal objectives:

Complete federal financing of any proposal to curb flood conditions, except local contributions to acquire rights-of-way for levees, to revamp sewer systems and to install flood pumps.

Immediate appropriation by congress of adequate funds to finance reservoirs, floodways, spillways and other control works authorized in the Overton and Copeland-Wilson acts.

These acts call for ultimate expenditures of $582,000,000.

Enlargement of the federal flood control program to include such related problems as reforestation and control of soil erosion.

Continuation of the United States army engineers' corps in charge of the construction, maintenance and operation of flood control projects.

TOBACCO MEN PLANTING NEAR-RECORD ACREAGE

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—Agriculture Department officials said today burley tobacco growers are busy planting a near-record acreage, with no prospect of state compacts or new federal legislation to control production this year.

Tentative estimates placed the 1937 planting at 500,000 acres, compared with 308,000 in 1936 and a five-year average, 1928-32, of 426,600.

The only control in sight officials said, is the soil conservation program. They predicted congress would not try to extend federal control at this session, and tobacco growing states have failed to adopt compacts as authorized in federal legislation adopted last year.

HUGE FREE MAIL RISE REVEALED BY SENATOR

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—Senator Hayden, Democrat, Arizona, produced postal statistics today to show that the amount of mail sent free by government agencies increased nearly 250 per cent between 1930 and 1936.

Hayden said part of the increase "might have been entirely justified," but he criticized distribution of what he called "needless publicity matter."

He added, however, that an increase in the number and scope of government agencies during recent years made necessary a somewhat greater use of the mail privilege.

Chief of Police Hornsby Is Presented Jeweled Badge

Chief of Police M. A. Hornsby, left, was honored when Mrs. Hornsby yesterday morning pinned on his coat a gold and jewel-studded badge, the gift of members of the police department, councilmen, recorders and other city officials. Mayor Hartsfield, right, who presented the badge, and Councilman John T. Marler, standing between the chief and Mrs. Hornsby, look on during the presentation.

JEWELLED BADGE GIVEN HORNSBY

Chief of Police Honored by Policemen, Councilmen and Officials.

A gold and jewel-studded badge was presented yesterday morning to Chief of Police M. A. Hornsby, the gift of members of the police department, councilmen, recorders and other city officials.

Mayor Hartsfield presented the badge, after a brief speech in which he praised the chief's "kindness, courtesy, fairness and honesty," and urged the police "to keep up their good work."

Mrs. Hornsby pinned the badge on the chief's coat following the mayor's speech.

The chief, visibly moved, accepted the badge with the words:

"I'll never disgrace this badge or betray your confidence. I appreciate your efforts to enforce the law, and you'll never be ashamed of giving me this badge."

Councilmen John T. Marler and Cecil W. Hester, of the police committee; Councilman Frank Wilson, city officials and prominent citizens attended the ceremony, held at 8 o'clock, the start of the day watch.

COAL UNION SHOWDOWN IN ILLINOIS DEMANDED

Lewis Group Seeks Recognition as Sole Bargaining Agency for Workers.

CHICAGO, March 11.—(AP)—John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers of America today moved for a showdown in the bitter union struggle for supremacy in Illinois coal fields.

The U. M. W. A. scale committee demanded recognition as the sole bargaining agency for all the state's miners at a conference with representatives of the Illinois Coal Operators' Association.

Elaborating on the new challenge to the Progressive Miners of America, President Ray Edmundson, of the Illinois U. M. W. A. organization declared:

"We will use every agency at our command to have the operators deal solely with us."

Since 1932, when a split in the U. M. W. A. ranks resulted in the formation of the P. M. A., the two groups have warred intermittently. Twelve men were killed in Christian county alone, 23 coal trains were bombed.

The U. M. W. A. committee, claiming to represent "the overwhelming majority" of miners, also asked wage increases, a six-hour day and a five-day week.

The demands — corresponding to those recently served on the Appalachian operators by the Lewis union — included an increase of 50 cents a day for day wage workers, lifting the basic scale from $5.50 to $6; a flat increase of 15 cents a ton in the cutting and loading rate with 13 cents more for loaders and two for cutters; an increase of 25 cents a ton for pick miners and a 20 per cent raise for yardage and "dead" workers; time and a half for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays; an annual minimum of 200 days employment and two weeks' vacation with pay.

MARCH 22 OPENING DAY OF NEW FLORIDA CANAL

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Colonel Earl North, army district engineer in Florida, navigated the new cross-state canal from the Gulf of Mexico to Lake Okechobee.

He reported the waterway, which extends to Stuart on the Atlantic, would be ready for the official opening March 22.

Colonel North was accompanied by Colonel Earl Brown, division engineer at Norfolk, and Colonel F. B. Wilby, of New Orleans, division engineer for the first. Their government boat was the first to be locked through the locks at Ocala between Labelle and Moore Haven, where the arrival of operating machinery delayed the opening from February 22.

KOREAN IS CONVICTED ON POISONING CHARGE

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 11.—(AP)—Chang Foo Lee, bland cigar-smoking houseboy, was convicted of second-degree assault today by a jury in Westchester county court.

He was charged with poisoning two relatives of his aged employer, Mrs. Ida L. Churchill.

Judge Gerald Nolan set no date for sentence. Chang faces an indeterminate sentence of two and one-half to five years on each of two counts, one each involving the asserted poisoning of Mr. and Mrs. George Barnes, former residents of Mooreville, Ind.

U. A. W. A., G-M HEADS SIDETRACK AGREEMENT

Only Minor Differences Remain To Be Settled Before Accord Reached.

DETROIT, March 11.—(AP)—Union demands for revised wording sidetracked final settlement of General Motors strike differences tonight just as conferees were reported on the verge of signing an agreement.

As statements persisted in three other automotive disputes leaving 75,000 Michigan wage-earners idle, representatives of General Motors and the United Automobile Workers of America delayed approval of a final pact at least until tomorrow.

Both denied the delay had serious significance.

C. E. Wilson, General Motors vice president, said "there are still several things to iron out."

Wynham Mortimer, U. A. W. A. vice president, insisted that changes had been made by General Motors in a final draft of tentative agreements previously reached, and that "original phraseology" must be restored.

Only Minor Differences Remain To Be Settled Before Accord Reached.

DETROIT, March 11.—(AP)—Union demands for revised wording sidetracked final settlement of General Motors strike differences tonight just as conferees were reported on the verge of signing an agreement.

As statements persisted in three other automotive disputes leaving 75,000 Michigan wage-earners idle, representatives of General Motors and the United Automobile Workers of America delayed approval of a final pact at least until tomorrow.

Both denied the delay had serious significance.

C. E. Wilson, General Motors vice president, said "there are still several things to iron out."

Wynham Mortimer, U. A. W. A. vice president, insisted that changes had been made by General Motors in a final draft of tentative agreements previously reached, and that "original phraseology" must be restored.

AGREEMENTS REACHED IN MEMPHIS STRIKES

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 11.—(AP)—Strikes affecting 550 workers in two different industries were settled here today.

Tri-State Dress Manufacturing Company signed an agreement with striking members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union granting all their demands. The agreement affects 150 girl employees.

The management of Chickasaw Wood Products Company, manufacturers of barrels, granted more than 400 unauthorized employees a five-cent-an-hour increase three hours after the workers walked out for a 10-cent increase.

AIRCRAFT STRIKE ENDS ON PACIFIC COAST

SANTA MONICA, Cal., March 11.—(AP)—An 18-day strike at the Douglas Aircraft plant was ended tonight by an agreement under which President Donald Douglas recognizes the C. I. O.'s aircraft division of the United Automobile Workers' Union and reinstates all 33 of the strikers.

THOMAS A. KNIGHT DIES IN BRISTOL

Knight Ice Company Executive Succumbs of Heart Attack.

Thomas A. Knight, of 715 Brookline street, S. W., president of the Knight Ice Company and vice president of the American Service Company, ice manufacturing firm, died suddenly last night of a heart attack at Bristol, Va., Tenn.

Mr. Knight had been in the ice business in Atlanta and Florida for 40 years and was widely known in the field. He would have been 62 years old April 19.

He was a member of the Stewart Avenue Methodist church and of the Oakland City Lodge, F. & A. M.

Surviving are his wife; two sons, Joel and Thomas Knight Jr., both of Atlanta; a sister, Mrs. Emma Cowan; two brothers, W. C. Knight, of Tampa, and Nat Knight, of New Orleans; and two grandchildren, Jean Dural Knight and Joel A. Knight Jr.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Harry G. Poole.

PROSECUTION LOOMS IN LIQUOR VIOLATION

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Prosecution is in order, the supreme court said today, if intoxicating liquor is sold in Florida counties which vote dry by local option.

It defined intoxicating liquor as any distilled beverage containing more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol by weight.

The court's decision, written by Justice Rivers Buford, overruled a claim by Frank J. McLeod that he could not be prosecuted in Alachua county circuit court for selling liquor in that county, which is dry.

The supreme court dismissed his case, and authorized his prosecution before Judge Sebring.

KOREAN IS CONVICTED ON POISONING CHARGE

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 11.—(AP)—Chang Foo Lee, bland cigar-smoking houseboy, was convicted of second-degree assault today by a jury in Westchester county court.

He was charged with poisoning two relatives of his aged employer, Mrs. Ida L. Churchill.

Judge Gerald Nolan set no date for sentence. Chang faces an indeterminate sentence of two and one-half to five years on each of two counts, one each involving the asserted poisoning of Mr. and Mrs. George Barnes, former residents of Mooreville, Ind.

Neither died.

Tall Taunton Solon Does Tall Talking

Local bills usually are passed by the general assembly without contest when the representative and senator of the county involved are in accord, but Representative Taunton, of Taylor county, who tops six feet, had to do some tall talking last night to get the house to pass his bill providing for 180 new law books for Taylor county's new courthouse.

As Clerk Andrew J. Kinery droned out the long list of supreme court and appellate court reports provided in the bill an effort was made to table it, but the effort was lost.

As statements persisted in three other automotive disputes leaving 75,000 Michigan wage-earners idle, representatives of General Motors and the United Automobile Workers of America delayed approval of a final pact at least until tomorrow.

Both denied the delay had serious significance.

C. E. Wilson, General Motors vice president, said "there are still several things to iron out."

Wynham Mortimer, U. A. W. A. vice president, insisted that changes had been made by General Motors in a final draft of tentative agreements previously reached, and that "original phraseology" must be restored.

RIVERS APPROVES BILL FOR INSURANCE BONDS

Life, Casualty and Indemnity Companies Brought Under Deposit Regulations.

Governor Rivers yesterday signed a bill to require life, casualty and indemnity insurance companies to post bonds with the state treasurer running from $10,000 to $25,000.

Similar requirements already apply to fire, marine and inland companies. The minimum deposit of $10,000 applies to all the companies.

Those in other states with a capital stock of $500,000 or more would be required to make the deposit equal to 2 per cent of their gross annual premium derived from business written in Georgia up to the $25,000 maximum.

A provision in the bill gives policyholders a preferred claim on the assets of companies being liquidated by receivership or otherwise.

The bill was introduced in the house by Representative Weisich, of Cobb county.

REPEAL OF OATH LAW SOUGHT IN BAY STATE

BOSTON, March 11.—(AP)—Foes of the Bay State law requiring teachers to swear allegiance to the state and federal constitutions—sponsored by a legislative committee report recommending its repeal—tonight lined up their forces for a showdown fight in the Massachusetts house next Tuesday.

Even as the committee published its report today, however, Thomas Dorgan, father of the oath law, bobbed up in the house corridor and expressed his confidence that the measure would remain on the statute books.

Five of the 15 members of the education committee dissented from the majority report recommending repeal, and a sixth reserved his rights.

BIGGEST NAVAL PLANS IN EMPIRE'S HISTORY OUTLINED BY BRITAIN

England To Have Under Construction 148 New Ships by End of Year.

LONDON, March 11.—(P)—Great Britain unfolded today the outline of one of the mightiest naval building programs in history and dropped a warning hint of the power she will hold—particularly in the Mediterranean.

While Premier Benito Mussolini, of Italy, cruised proudly to Libya at the head of his fleet, Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the British admiralty, told the house of commons secret plans already were laid to repel any attack "in narrow seas."

The first lord minced no words announcing Great Britain's resolve to protect the world trade routes of the empire and maintain her power in both hemispheres.

Pointed at Italy.

Many observers believed Sir Samuel's remarks were pointed primarily at Italy, as an answer to British fears Italy might some day seek to cut the empire lifeline through the Mediterranean.

He told commons that, by the end of the year, Great Britain would have under construction "the remarkable number" of 148 new warships.

Introducing the 1937 naval estimates, Sir Samuel said they call for 80 more new ships—above those already authorized—at a cost of $525,000,000. Among them, he said, will be five capital ships, four aircraft carriers and 17 cruisers.

Gesture of Friendship.

He warned, if Britain allowed more time to pass before launching fully into the naval phase of her five-year, $7,500,000,000 defense program, she would find herself in a position of serious weakness in the face of naval powers that have been building new battlefleets for some years.

Sir Samuel made a gesture of friendship to the United States and to Germany, Britain's great pre-war naval rival, in presenting the vast estimates.

"Now and henceforth," he proclaimed, "there can be no rivalry between the American and British navies. Nor can there be any race between German and British naval armaments."

"Our program is aimed at no country."

SAMUEL D. PRESTON, 42, PASSES AT RESIDENCE

Samuel D. Preston, 42, former Atlanta fireman and brother of two members of the Atlanta police department, died yesterday morning at his home, 204 Glenwood avenue.

Born in Rockdale county, Mr. Preston had lived in Atlanta nearly all his life and was educated here. He was the brother of Patrolman Charles F. Preston and Detective James A. Preston.

In addition he is survived by another brother, I. H. Preston; his wife; a son, S. W. Preston Jr.; a daughter, Mrs. Pete Avery; and a sister, Mrs. Will Chaffin.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon with the Rev. Robert Lampkin officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

H. L. MURPHY SR. RITES WILL BE HELD TODAY

Final rites for H. L. (Pat) Murphy Sr., veteran engineer of the Southern Railway System, will be held at 11:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill, with the Rev. W. R. Sisson and the Rev. A. E. Scott officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Local No. 308, in charge of graveside services.

Mr. Murphy, who was 63 years old, died Wednesday night at a private hospital. He had been an employee of the railroad for more than 35 years.

HANGARS TO BE DEDICATED.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 11.—(P)—New $150,000 airplane hangars will be dedicated Sunday at Lawson field, Fort Benning, at ceremonies in which Brigadier General Asa L. Singleton, commandant, will participate.

Raincoats Lighter For Warmer Weather

Oiled Cottons and Silks Are Favored by Many, But Gabardines Continue Strong—Raglans Are Tops.

SUMMER RAINCOAT

The lightweight oiled-silk raincoat for summer, almost transparent, double-breasted, with an all-round belt.

By ROBERT FAIRCHILD, Editor Men's Fashions.

Along with every other division of the wardrobe, the raincoat has been adapted to specifically summer wear. Lighter in weight, with added ventilative features, fuller cut and in many cases almost transparent, the warmer weather raincoat models lean more to the negative side of the should-a-raincoat-resemble-a-topcoat-or-should-it-be-distinctly-a-raincoat debate.

That debate is perennial. It is, of course, a matter of taste whether you want a raincoat to resemble a topcoat or whether you believe it should be specifically and unequivocally a raincoat, with no pretensions in other directions. However, since in the summer it is rarely necessary to wear a topcoat, a raincoat that proclaims its purpose as that of a shield against the wet is more in order.

Oiled silk and oiled cotton are the two leading style-right fabrics in the raincoat field for summer. These materials are so extremely lightweight that except for the fact that you move perfectly dry through the downpour you would hardly be aware that you are wearing a raincoat at all. Most raincoats are raglans, since the easy movement of this type of sleeve is a highly desirable characteristic in a wet-weather garment. They are full-skirted and loose-fitting, without any possibility of constriction.

D.B.'s Lead
In Oiled Fabrics.

The leading model is the double-breasted, with, of course, the convertible collar, and usually with an all-round belt, to lend a touch of swagger to the coat. Sea-green, amber, black and maroon are leading colors in the oiled fabrics.

But the lady who prefers to have a raincoat that has the air of a topcoat stick with the cotton and the worsted gabardines. These are more frequently single-breasted, the fly-front model being particularly smart. Here again raglan shoulders are the thing, with a full skirt serving to distribute the runlets of water a safe distance from the trousers. Tan is the leading shade.

Georgia Vegetables Rich in Iodine, Experiment Station Study Shows

Normal individuals eating a normal diet of Georgia-grown vegetables need have no fear of developing simple goiter, T. A. Pickett, of the Georgia experiment station, declared yesterday. As simple goiter and allied diseases are attributed to a deficiency of iodine, the Georgia experiment station undertook a five-year program to determine the amount of iodine contained in the vegetables grown in various sections of the state.

Georgia has been classed in that group of states throughout the nation which are most free of goiter. The scientists wanted to know why. They knew the importance of iodine, that without it the sheep's yield of wool is reduced, horses' joints give trouble, swine litters are born hairless. What they did not know was the value of iodine in plant growth.

Sample vegetables, grown in 37 counties of all sections of the state, were obtained, the majority of the samples being white potatoes as they are grown in all sections. Other vegetables obtained were turnip tops, lettuce, collards, pimientos, spinach. Each were analyzed.

The iodine content varied, Pickett said, but it was determined that the maximum amount found in potatoes of one section was eight times the minimum amount. The difference was attributed to varying amounts of rainfall.

Leafy vegetables were discovered to be far richer in iodine content than the tuberous types, and the water level of the soil had a distinct influence on the amount of iodine the plant absorbed, he declared.

All considered together, vegetables from one section of the state had as much iodine as vegetables from another, Pickett said.

The scientists considered the fact that the incidence of goiter in Georgia is considered to be practically nil, that all Georgia-grown vegetables are rich in iodine content.

Then after six years' study, they prescribed Georgia vegetables eaten in normal quantities as the reasonable preventative for simple goiter.

2 Million Are Starving
In Famine in W. China

HANKOW, China, March 11.—(P)—Two million residents of Western Honan province have been stricken, the China International Famine Relief Commission reported today, by a famine which has created "3,000 square miles of silence."

A million inhabitants already are suffering acutely, the commission, headed by John Earl Baker, of Eagle, Wis., reported. The death toll, already started, is doomed to rise before spring crops are harvested.

Scenes of great desolation were pictured, with farmers deserting their homes in 6,000 villages to seek government aid.

$2,000,000 RELIEF BILL PASSED BY S. C. SENATE

House Rejects Plan To Finance Social Security Program.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 11.—(P)—Quick action by the senate today sent social security and local option bills to the house where representatives were struggling with a security program of their own.

Without debate the senate passed on third reading a bill embodying a $2,000,000 program of relief for needy and aged, and another to allow 25 per cent of the electorate of any county to call an election on the question of continuing the sale of whisky within its borders.

The house, meanwhile, rejected by a 61-51 vote a proposal that it finance the $1,020,000 social security program sponsored by its social legislation committee through legalized pari-mutuel race track betting.

FILIBUSTERS MARK ARKANSAS ADJOURNMENT

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 11.—(P)—Filibusters and heated debates marked tumultuous sine die adjournment at noon today of the 1937 Arkansas legislature.

The house closed its session with five senate bills waiting roll call, their final passage blocked by a vain attempt to win approval for a sixth measure eliminating payment of a poll tax as a requirement for voting in primary elections.

The senate ended its session with a clear calendar and time to spare, but witnessed one of the hottest debates of the year on a measure to appropriate $1,829,600 for expenses of the house investigation into alleged lawlessness at Hot Springs.

FLORIDA SOLONS OPPOSE POOLING OF GAS FUNDS

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 11.—(P)—A group of legislators from lower west Florida counties told D. Stuart Gillis, president designate of the state senate, today they were opposed to the pooling of the gasoline tax bond fund.

Governor Cone has proposed dumping all state revenues into a common fund.

"It would add 10 mills to the taxes we would have to levy against property here in Lee county, including exempt homes," declared Representative William J. Wood, of Fort Myers.

"That isn't economy. Our taxpayers would call it profligate extravagance."

N. C. LAWMAKERS VISIT OLD STATE CAPITAL

EDENTON, N. C., March 11.—(P)—Edenton's one-day reign as the 20th century capital of North Carolina ended tonight when members of the general assembly left here by special train for Raleigh to resume their task of clearing legislative decks for scheduled sine die adjournment one week from today.

Mixing work and play, the lawmakers convened in the historic Chowan county courthouse, built in 1729, passed more than 30 bills, received some freak resolutions, heard addresses by Governor Hoey and Mayor E. W. Spire, then ate oysters and barbecued ham before touring the city.

Three hundred and thirty-four persons, including Governor Hoey, state officials, newspapermen and attaches, arrived here on special train at noon. Persons motoring to the former state capital swelled the number of visitors to more than 1,000.

It was the first time since 1743 that a legislature has met here. Edenton and New Bern generally are considered to be North Carolina's first capitals.

PNEUMONIA FATAL TO WEALTHY TEXAN

J. S. Cullinan, Oil Enterprise Founder, Dies in Palo Alto.

PALO ALTO, Cal., March 11.—(P)—J. S. Cullinan, 76, Texas, capitalist and oil enterprise founder, died today of pneumonia that followed a cold he contracted after being frightened out of bed by an earthquake shock.

Friends said Cullinan, whose enterprises included the Texas Company, was in San Francisco Monday, on the way here to visit friends, when an early morning tremor caused him to leap out of bed.

He caught a cold, quickly became worse and was brought to a hospital here.

Cullinan arrived a few days ago from Texas for a reunion with former President Herbert Hoover and Ben Allen, who aided Hoover in war-time relief work in Belgium.

Along with Mark Requa, California mining engineer who died last week, Cullinan assisted Hoover in the United States food administration work in 1917-18.

WILLIAM H. CLIFT.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 11.—(P)—William Henry (Bill) Clift, 31, former Chattanooga and Knoxville newspaperman, died last night in an El Paso, Texas, hospital following an operation, friends here were notified today.

Clift, who served as sports editor of the Chattanooga Times and Knoxville Sentinel, later worked on the Nashville Tennessean and the Louisville Herald Post. He resigned more than a year ago to enter a sanitarium in Chattanooga and just recently moved to Texas for his health. Funeral services will be held here.

ALEXANDER BEAN.

MCDONALD, Tenn., March 11.—(P)—Alexander Bean, 89, union veteran of the War Between the States, died early today at his home here. He entered eighth Tennessee cavalry on November 8, 1862, in Greene county. His wife died last Sunday.

Well-Known Atlantans Will Attend Rotary Convention in Nice, France

By Sally Forth.

WHEN the S. S. Roma noses her way out of New York harbor on May 22 the passenger list will be filled with the names of prominent Atlantans on their way to Europe to attend the meeting of the Rotary International, which convenes in Nice, France. In addition to the Atlantans, there will be many other distinguished Americans who will sail on the Roma, as well as on the S. S. Rex, the passenger list of which will also contain names of Atlantans.

Forming a congenial group sailing on the Roma will be Mr. and Mrs. Howard See and their daughters, Elizabeth and Dorothy See, and Joseph Winslow and his daughters, Nell and Margaret Winslow. Mrs. Winslow and the other girls, Lillian and Lane Winslow, have made some exciting plans for their summer vacation, part of which will be spent at their summer home at the Tate Mountain Estates, while the remainder of the season will be spent in fulfillment of plans which are at present under consideration.

But back to the European travelers. They will land at Nice, according to present plans, and after a sojourn there, where the main part of the convention takes place, the Atlanta party will later go to Paris, and adjacent points, and thence to London. The trip will be of six weeks and they will, Nell Winslow, who is a student at the University of Georgia, hopes to remain on the continent to study journalism, but her friends here are hoping that, after the six weeks' stay in Europe, she will be ready to return to her native state to continue her studies at the state university, where she will be a member of the senior class.

ATLANTANS said good-bye yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Boykin, who left for Wilmington, Del., to make their future home. No Atlanta couple of Sally Forth's acquaintance is more beloved or held in higher esteem than the Boykins. Their friends are legion and they will be missed keenly, as they are recognized as leaders in church, civic and social life.

Mr. and Mrs. Boykin are among Atlanta's outstanding citizens and their home has provided the setting for countless meetings of cultural and charitable organizations, as well as for many social occasions.

Sally recalls in recent years that two of Atlanta's most brilliant social functions were the wedding reception at which Mr. and Mrs. Boykin entertained after the marriage of their daughter, the former Frances Boykin, to William Barnett, and the debut party at which Frances was introduced to society by her parents.

These affairs were given at the Boykins' handsome home on Andrews drive and assembled several hundred prominent Atlantans.

Mr. and Mrs. Boykin's greatest interest has been centered in St. Mark Methodist church, with which they have been affiliated since their marriage, having become members of this church when the building stood on Morris avenue. They have contributed much of their time and financial aid to the church, Mr. Boykin serving as trustee and chairman of the board of stewards for many years. During her membership at St. Mark, Mrs. Boykin has been a leading factor in the Women's Missionary Society, which she headed for a period of years.

Mrs. Boykin's interest in young women's welfare has been manifested through the Young Women's Christian Association, with which she has worked faithfully and untiringly. She directed the association's activities when she was elected its president. Other worthy organizations give Mr. and Mrs. Boykin credit for their success and development because of their services and influence.

Good wishes follow this valued pair, whom Atlanta will always claim as her own, to their new destination. The sad note in saying good-bye to them is cheered by the promise that they will return for frequent visits to their beloved Atlanta.

Service Star Legion To Aid in Planting

An enthusiastic meeting of the Atlanta and Fulton County Chapter of Service Star Legion met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. R. E. Res. Mrs. J. C. Mellichamp, national president of Service Star Legion, drew Delaware, which is in the first division at Buckhead, Delaware was the first state to ratify the constitution unanimously on December 7, 1937. The road will be 100 feet wide, with 25 feet on either side reserved for beautification, and will be perpetually kept and preserved. Trees will be planted in these divisions by the patriotic societies in memory of outstanding members or heroes especially honored by the Service Star Legion has already purchased a number of these trees, and many more will be donated by the different chapters in the state.

Mrs. Carl C. Aven, president of the Schumann-Heink Chapter, brought greetings from her group. She reported that plans were progressing for entertaining the state convention at the Atlanta Woman's Club on May 13 and 14, and asked the chapter's cooperation by attending a bridge party at 14's April 9. Mrs. H. L. Lindsay, treasurer of the chapter, was also present.

Mrs. A. H. Strickland, president of the Georgia division, urged the chapters to organize honor boys in the state. She announced receipt of a letter from Mrs. Ethel Dickason, national honor boys' chairman. She spoke of the approaching convention, and gave instructions for the various chapters to follow.

Mrs. S. R. Greenblatt, chairman of work for the Fifth District Federation of Clubs, was present. She told of the Kreighbaum Memorial Light-house on Washington street, and of the wonderful work accomplished there. She urged Service Star Legion to aid in this work, as Georgia has no appropriation for this project, as many other states have. She asked that only blooms with "Community House" upon them be bought, which are made by the blind. She explained the many phases of the work, and for the blind. A membership drive is on for the next month, and all members are urged to secure another member, either reinstated or new.

Mrs. J. E. Hays Is Complimented At Luncheon at Woman's Club

Mrs. J. E. Hays, state historian, was honored yesterday at luncheon at the Atlanta Woman's Club, the occasion being in the form of a reunion of the Georgia delegates of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs held in 1922 in Chautauque, N. Y. At the time of the convention Mrs. Hays was president of the Georgia Federation, and was elected recording secretary of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Chautauque. Mrs. Nichols Peterson, of Tifton, was Mrs. Hays' campaign manager at the convention, and Mrs. Samuel M. Inman was director for Georgia of General Federation. The Georgia delegation was successful in securing the 1923 convention of the General Federation to be held in Atlanta.

A miniature train centered the luncheon table, and the train was ornamented with streamers signifying the fact that the Georgia delegation had reserved the train for its trip to Chautauque. Some of the delegates reminisced about the 1922 convention of General Federation of Women's Clubs, when it was held in Chautauque, and related interesting and amusing incidents relative to the trip. Mrs. E. D. Rivers, first lady of Georgia; Mrs. John Wilson, wife of the secretary of state; Mrs. W. F. Melton, president of the Atlanta Woman's Club; Mesdames Edwin K. Van Winkle, Pauline Branyon and Ris Stafford were special guests. Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, of Montezuma, sister of Mrs. Hays, and Mrs. Nichols Peterson, of Tifton, were among the prominent guests attending the luncheon.

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

STYLISTS FIGURE-CONSCIOUS. How do you look with a bright sash about your waist? In the newest and loveliest spring clothes the emphasis is on the waistline—and it has to be slim.

At a recent fashion show, we could not help but notice that the stylists have gone completely figure-minded and are unanimous in calling attention to the waistline. There wasn't a dress without a brightly hued belt or sash of another color—and you know what that does to the waistline! Even the suits follow the waistline trend, with boleros, vestees and fitted jackets.

The figure you cut in your new clothes depends upon your measurements and your posture. The waistline must be seven to eight inches less than the bust measurements, for sashes and wide belts. And with inches so important, your posture must be straight as an arrow; there is bound to be a bulge where the ribs leave off.

Clothes may make the woman, but this season the figure makes the clothes. The style show audience applauded loudest for a model with a gay, erect figure—whose clothes were no more beautiful than those worn by the other models. What a contrast there was between this girl and another who slumped down the promenade like a determined farmhand, head poked forward and feet moving in two awkward parallel lines. Her beautiful gown was wasted. Still another model in a tailor-made who looked well in other clothes—was noticeably thick about the waistline in the closely fitting suit.

You can pull your waist apart and slenderize this measurement by exercise and better posture. To meet the demands of the stylists we have a new illustrated exercise leaflet, "Waistlines and Belts." These exercises concentrate on waist and abdominal muscles. The strengthening of the abdominal muscles means the disappearance of that graceless little bulge in front. Send for the leaflet—but in the meantime, try this on your waistline:

Position: Stand erect, heels together and toes pointed out, right arm and shoulder raised high in the air, chin tilted up over right shoulder, left hand also raised in air.

Movement: Holding position, bend at waist directly to the left side. Drop arms from this position and completely relax, but do not let chin drop over on chest. Alternate the sides, bending the body as far to each side as possible.

If you have any doubt that the figure is as important as the frock, think of the Hollywood designers who have moved the fashion center of the world from Paris to Hollywood, where the clothes are designed to reveal beautiful figures.

Contract Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON.
World's Champion
Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

SIGN-OFF OR RESCUE BIDS. To "rescue" partner's opening bid, simply because of weakness in his suit, is one of the most tempting yet most dangerous bidding situations in contract bridge. The best rescue is a pass.

The only exceptions occur in rare instances when the "rescue" inference is so clear that no possible misunderstanding can arise between partners, and then only when the responder can reasonably expect to win enough extra tricks at his rescue bid to justify increasing the contract. Almost all rescue bids are made to take partner out of no-trump contracts. These are known as "sign-off" bids and can be recognized by the following characteristics:

1. The responder takes out his partner's opening one no-trump bid with two of any suit and, if opened then rebids two no-trump, responds with three of the same suit.

2. The responder, over an intervening pass, gives his partner a single raise and then, when opener rebids a new suit, returns to the original suit at the lowest possible level.

This hand occurred in a match-point duplicate game. West opened a low heart and declarer's jack won the first trick. The ace and king of spades dropped the outstanding trumps, and declarer then led his singleton diamond and finessed dummy's queen. East won, returned a club, and the defenders took three club tricks, defeating the contract.

The declarer's play was horrible beyond words. If this had been a case of risking a certain game contract for the chance of extra tricks, in the hope of earning additional match points, it might be more difficult to give a fair opinion. In duplicate bridge it is sometimes wise to do that very thing, namely, risk a game for extra tricks that seem highly probable, but this hand does not even resemble such a case. In this case, proper play on South's part not only would have insured the contract but would have left the way open to those promising extra tricks.

After holding the first trick with the heart jack, and dropping the spade queen in two leads, declarer should have seen that there were two ways to finesse against the diamond queen. One of them was quite safe, and the other criminally risky. A diamond to dummy's king, the cashing of the diamond ace with a club discard, and the lead of dummy's jack through East would have been 100 per cent safe, and at the same time reserved the possibility of extra tricks.

If East covered the jack, South would ruff, then ruff a heart and chuck his second club on the diamond ten, making six odd. If the jack were not covered, South would have nothing to lose by discarding a club, and if this trick lost to West, who certainly would shift to clubs, five odd would result.

TODAY'S QUESTION. Question: Partner opened the bidding with one heart. Second hand passed, and I held spade K 6 4, heart A K 7 3, diamonds 8 4, 4, 4, Q J 10 6. What should have been the proper response?

Answer: Three hearts.

Rome Weddings Are Announced

ROME, Ga., March 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Wylie E. Coggins, of Villa Rica, Ga., announce the marriage of their daughter, Flossie, to Roy Gresson, of Rome, formerly of Monroe, Ga. The marriage was solemnized Sunday at the home of Dr. John H. Wood, pastor of First Christian church, Dr. Wood officiating in the presence of the bride's sisters, Mrs. F. P. Fingley, Miss Ruth Coggins, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Taylor, Sam Gessman and Mrs. W. E. McKenzie.

Mr. and Mrs. Findley gave a breakfast for the couple after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Gresson are making their home in an apartment on Myrtle street.

Miss Mary Alice Davis, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Davis, and Thomas Penn Maher, of Atlanta, were married at the home of the bride's parents Sunday afternoon. Dr. Bunyan Stephens, pastor of First Baptist church, read the ring marriage service in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride wore a traveling costume of green wool, a coat model collared a red fox fur. She wore a London tan sport hat and her green shoes were trimmed in London tan. She wore a cluster of orchids in her coat lapel.

Mr. and Mrs. Maher left on a motor trip and will make their home in Atlanta where Mr. Maher is with the Commercial Credit Company.

For Miss Morris. Mrs. Effie L. Morris, of Henderson, N. C., who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John E. Wells, at her home on the Prado, is being honored at several informal social affairs. On Wednesday Mrs. Wells entertains at a bridge-luncheon for her mother, the affair to assemble 12 friends of the hostess.

Shorter College. ROME, Ga., March 11.—Miss Mary Margaret Whitton, of Asheville, N. C., has been selected as May queen for the coming May Day festival at Shorter College.

Beauty, According to YOU!

(Posed by Virginia Bruce).

Do You Choose Make-Up To Blend With Your Personality Color?

By LILLIAN MAE

Do you buy cosmetics with any definite plan of harmony, or because the various articles selected look pretty in the jars and boxes?

When buying a hat or dress, you take into consideration your own coloring, and purchase wearing apparel that best blends with your eyes, hair and complexion. No less important to the general ensemble, is a facial make-up.

Women have long been classified as either blonde or brunette. But perhaps the girl with dark hair has a light complexion. What then about her powder, rouge, etc.? After experimenting many months, one cosmetic maker hit upon the idea that nature has given to you, and to every woman, a personality color—one that is definitely related to skin and hair pigmentation. And this personality color is that of the eyes.

Around the eye color, he has built up what he calls a matched make-up ensemble, consisting of face powder, rouge, lipstick, eye shadow and mascara. You know yourself, if your eyes are blue, you look best in a soft blue dress. You know that if your eyes are brown, you look well in orange or brown tones. This is just as true of cosmetics as it is of clothes.

The matched make-up sets about which I am telling you contain generous amounts of each item—certainly enough to last during a few weeks of testing, and yet the cost for the set is no more than that of an average box of powder. Of course after using one of these trial sets, you'll know exactly what shade of the various articles to buy in larger quantities, to harmonize with your personality—the color so essentially your own.

I am convinced you will be better satisfied with your general appearance when you take a first glance at yourself dressed up in harmonizing shades of powder, rouge, lipstick, eye shadow and mascara. Of course, I advocate that the last two mentioned be used very sparingly in daytime.

If you are interested in the trade name of this matched ensemble, and where it may be purchased, please Lillian Mae at The Constitution office. If you do not live in Atlanta, send stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Dizzy and Breadon Fail To Agree After Two Conferences

One of the stories a certain university professor recalls with the greatest chuckle concerns a football player who was a star almost a decade ago.

The star was taking an English re-examination. He came upon this question:

Name two poets who were contemporary with Byron. The star, who had studied himself into a befuddled condition, wrote his answer: "Sheets and Kelley." "What did you give him on the answer?" "Perfect," he said. "That was the greatest answer I ever got in a quarter century of teaching. It remains one of the brightest spots in my career." "And," he said, "if you will say it over and over you will finally conclude it sounds much better than Keats and Shelley." And it does.

TOO MUCH OF A START.

One of the best baseball drinking stories concerned an old Southern league ball player of years ago. His name was Stark, and he died later on in some sort of roadhouse scrape. He played in the pre-prohibition days.

He went into a barroom and the barkeeper, who knew him, said:

"How'd you like to have a drink of likker 20 years old?" "Twenty years old?" "Yeah!" "Give it to me and it will be the last drink I ever take." "Why is that?" "If those so-and-so's are 20 years ahead of me, I never can catch up."

THE RULE OF FEAR.

Jack Steele, recently sentenced to the state big house over in Arkansas for involuntary manslaughter, once managed the Little Rock baseball club.

No one quite knew why. He was listed as a tough hombre. And I know his ball players were deathly afraid of him. No one questioned Jack Steele. He was a great man with his fists and if he did not do so well with those his reputation was he would employ other weapons. Officials in the office of organized baseball didn't care for him. He was dropped after a couple of seasons. He had been a hero in the World War, having been cited for bravery on many occasions and having won many medals. I recall an afternoon another newspaperman and I were talking with him about machine guns and their effectiveness in war.

"Give me the one-pounder," he said. "It's the most effective weapon ever developed for close-range work. I recall seeing it do a lot of great work one afternoon."

"On targets?" said one of us. "Yeah," he said, "Germans." The staff, in the past year, is getting rid of the one-pounder. And the men who handle the guns in practice, not theory, are cursing the general staff for taking away from the American army its most effective weapon. Not many weeks ago I heard an old sergeant hold forth on the subject. I thought of Jack Steele.

INCOGNITO—AS WALTER JOHNSON.

Some years ago a former football star in the south became an umpire in the Southern association. He was in love with a young lady in Nashville, Tenn.-O-See. And the love was unreturned.

Whether rightly or not, the umpire blamed it on the young lady's mother.

He had a very deep sorrow and tried one night to drown it in strong drink. But the sorrow, it seemed, knew how to swim. Late that night it seemed to him to be a good idea to go

'NOT ONE CENT UNDER $50,000,' DEAN DEMANDS

Breadon Calls Demand Unreasonable; Diz Threatens To Quit.

By H. Y. Aronstam.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 11.—(UP)—Dizzy Dean today again "quit" baseball for all time.

He refused to accept a penny less than $50,000 to pitch for the St. Louis Cardinals and announced his "retirement" after two conferences with President Sam Breadon.

Breadon offered Dizzy $22,500. Diz spurned the offer and reiterated his demands for $50,000 or else. "Ole Diz is through with baseball," he announced.

He took a deep breath, and then launched into his annual tirade against Breadon and the Cardinals.

"Breadon keeps offering me $22,500," he said. "I want $50,000. And I ain't a-comin' down a cent. Not Ole Diz. Breadon said he was offering me more than Carl Hubbell, of the Giants."

"Shucks, who's Hubbell? He don't put 'em in the cash register like Diz. Bill Terry and everyone in New York'll tell you that."

"I can quit baseball with no regret. I got a lot o' dough rolling in the till. Just signed a new radio contract to work three minutes twice a week. Anyway, tell the fans Dizzy don't have to worry about how he's going to get along. He'll make it all right. He'll make it better'n the Cards will without him."

"I'll tell you about the Cardinals. They'll probably win the first game of the season with Lon Warneke pitching against the Reds. Then they'll go down and down and down. Why they might even finish below the Phillies."

Breadon said:

"Dizzy's unreasonable. He thinks he's a one-man team and that we can't win a pennant without him. Well, we won four in six years before he joined the club and only one in six years since he's been with us. If we allow Diz to run our organization then I might as well get out of the business."

"I've enjoyed having Dizzy with us, but if he's decided to quit baseball I can't get him to change his mind. My top figure remains $22,500. He wants $50,000. We can't agree. That's all."

Baseball experts predicted Diz would sign soon.

Averill Rejects $15,000 Offer.

CLEVELAND, March 11.—(AP)—Earl Averill, top-ranking Cleveland Indians' hitter, rejected today a 1937 salary offer of $15,000, and remained a holdout, he said, to insist on not less than $16,000.

The outfielder, whose .378 batting average gave him second place in the American league last year, said C. C. Slapnicka, the Indians' business manager, made the $15,000 offer during a two-hour conference.

Van Mungo Signs Dodger Contract.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Van Lingle Mungo, fireball right-hand pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, ended his holdout today by signing for 1937 at a salary believed to be $15,000.

Although no announcement of terms was made, the big strikeout king of the Dodgers was said to have won his salary fight with Brooklyn, who had insisted he sign for $14,500, while he held out for $500 more.

American Leads In Holdouts.

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—The American league, traditionally the timid one of the baseball world, has 13 rebel holdouts to the National's eight, an Associated Press survey revealed today.

Every club in the majors except the New York Giants, Detroit Tigers and Washington Senators has at least one belligerent, and the wealthy Boston Red Sox have more than any—anybody else with four.

The two most serious holdouts are, of course, Jerome Herman Dean, of the Cards, who is the loudest, and Lou Gehrig, of the New York Yankees, who is the quietest.

One new revelation was made in the Yankee situation today. Owner Jacob Ruppert said Pitcher Red Ruffing had lowered his demand from $30,000 to $18,000. He was offered $15,000. The other squealing Yankee is Joe DiMaggio, who is said to have been offered $15,000, which is $6,500 more than he got last year. He wants $17,500. Gehrig is asking $50,000; has been offered $36,000.

The four Red Sox holdouts are Eric McNair, who was given a slight increase over last year's salary; Roger Cramer, who was asked to take a slight cut, and Johnny Kroner and Jack Russell, both slashed badly.

INDIANS HAVE THREE.

The Cleveland Indians are the only other American league team with more than one holdout. They have three: Earl Averill, who thinks his 1936 batting record of .378 entitles him to $17,500; Pitcher Johnny Allen and Catcher Billy Sullivan.

The St. Louis Browns, Philadelphia Athletics, and Chicago White Sox each have a single headache. Bean Ball wants the Browns to pay him $15,000 and they have offered him exactly half that much. Merritt (Sugar) Cain has asked the White Sox for $8,000, and they have countered with $6,000. And Wally Moses, of the Athletics, wants $10,000, which is $2,000 more than Connie Mack says he'll pay.

In the National, practically all the holdouts are stars. The Dodgers, have First Baseman Buddy Hassett out. Hassett wants $8,000 and the Dodgers insist on $7,500. This situation is expected to be cleared up soon.

Ace Displays 'Pitching' Form

Blair Nunamaker, tall, slim horse shoe champion, walked up to the peg and threw four ringers in rather rapid succession. All four shoes stayed on.

It's one of the most difficult things to do in horseshoe pitching. That is, making all four shoes stay on the peg. Champion of the world for six of the last eight years, Nunamaker explained that the secret of horseshoe pitching lies mainly in the swing and follow through.

"One must be a good judge of line and distance and throw an open shoe," he said.

Nunamaker is one of four men who has thrown 98 ringers in 100 attempts. His best consecutive record is 60.

ONE AFTER ANOTHER.

The 30-year-old expert does not waste any time throwing the shoes. He steps up there and fires one after another. When he misses, it's only by a hair-breadth.

He stood out in the backyard of W. W. Blackman's place of business on Capitol avenue yesterday afternoon and gave a sort of private preview of his skill.

He attached four matches to a peg with a rubber band, lighted the matches and then put them out with two throws.

The distance between pegs is 40 feet. And if a baseball pitcher, standing 60 feet from home plate, could command the consistent accuracy with a baseball that Nunamaker can with a two and one-half pound horseshoe, there wouldn't be any chance for him to lose.

UNCANNY PERFORMANCE. It's positively uncanny. You don't believe your own eyes. C. L. Dobbs and Dr. M. S. Fahrner joined hands and formed a human hoop in front of a peg.

Then Nunamaker tossed ringers through the hoop. Dr. Fahrner put his foot on top of the peg. And Nunamaker, saying "This is the greatest corn cure in the world," tossed four ringers without even coming close to the foot.

Saturday, at 2:30 o'clock at Piedmont park near the Fourteenth street entrance, Nunamaker will show Georgia horseshoe pitchers how it's done.

Kiwanis Club Honors Lawrenceville, Dacula

Ralph McGill Principal Speaker at Banquet for Basketball Teams.

Lawrenceville, Ga., March 11.—Ralph McGill, sports editor of The Constitution, was principal speaker at a fine banquet given tonight by the Kiwanis Club for the girls' and boys' basketball team of Lawrenceville High and the boys' team of Dacula.

Coach Phil Alexander, of Lawrenceville, presented letters to his boys' team and sweaters to the girls' who were runners-up in the ninth district. The girls won 28 out of 30 games and scored more than 900 points, averaging a point a minute through the season.

Girl sweater winners included Eugenia Jones, Margie Hutchens, Bonnie Lou Simpson, Mary Hale and Laurie Wages.

Letters were awarded the following boys: Alfred Craft, Grover Green, Dick Anderson, J. J. Etheridge, Oscar Wade, Harold Wilson, Dagie Johnson.

Coach Hoyt Turner, of Dacula, presented his boys' team, winners of the eastern division of the ninth district, to the gathering.

They included O. Brooks, L. Wages, R. Archer, L. Archer, C. Hagan, H. Tanner, J. T. Bradberry, H. McMillan.

Quill Sammon served as toastmaster, while John M. Langley, president of the Kiwanis Club, presided.

W. P. Pentecost, for years The Constitution's correspondent at Lawrenceville, introduced Mr. McGill, who traced the history of basketball and illustrated the benefit of sports to young people and the lessons they teach for later adaptation to the game of life.

Among those introduced were Mayor J. J. Baggett, Professor Paul King, Marvin Allison, Dr. Williams and Rev. J. L. Henderson.

The joint banquet was a deserved compliment to the fine teams of Lawrenceville and of Dacula, down the road.

ATLANTA THEATRE

Bucky Harris Predicts Tighter Race in American League

STRONGER FOES TO GIVE YANKS TOUGH BATTLE

Hurlers Will Spot DiMaggio; Malone, Hadley Can't Keep Pace.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 11.—(AP) Bucky Harris, head man of the up and coming Washington Senators, thinks the American league's got something this year and is willing to bet on it.

"If the Yankees take the rest of the season on another bumpy ride, I will give Joe McCarthy a piece back ride from Yankee stadium to Brooklyn and apply for citizenship papers in Flatbush," promised Bucky. "Laugh all you want to, but in my book the race is going to be the closest in years."

"Sure, you got to give the Yanks the call as the heavy favorite, the one team to beat, but they're going to have some, and don't kid your self. Not only has every club in the league improved, but does anyone think the Yanks can do better than last season?"

"If Pat Malone and Bump Hadley win 20 and lose only 8 between them, I'll give them a piece back ride from down Fifth avenue. Lefty Gomez is bound to do better but not enough to offset the slips by Bump and Pat. DiMaggio unquestionably is a real fine ball player, but he'll have to be plenty good to hit .323 his second year. You know pitchers invariably do better with a sensational rookie the second year. They study him and his batting style all winter while the batter sits around in the sun."

Bucky called attention to the finish made by Detroit last season and truly the Tigers were a cinch to be tough.

"From all I hear," said Bucky, "Hank Greenberg is in fine fettle. He's a truly remarkable hitter. What terrific power he has means a lot of ball games to a club."

"I think Chicago will have a hard time doing as well as it did last year, but don't forget, Cleveland. For several years ever since has been Cleveland a dangerous contender. Yet something always happened to the Indians. A spark was missing. Maybe that Bob Feller will give 'em that spark."

"Another reason why the race can't help but be closer is Boston. Gosh, the Red Sox can't do as badly as they did last year. A team with all that power and class can slump one year but not two years in succession. Don't overlook them."

As for the Senators, they are out to get some revenge on the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians, in particular, this year.

"We whipped the Yanks nine times out of 22 games, a darned good 'howling' and we split even with the Tigers, but the White Sox and Indians kicked us out of town every time we played them, so it seemed."

Vols' Owner Is Confident Of Flag

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 11.—(AP)—Fay L. Murray, owner of the Nashville Vols, with a little gentle prodding from his questioners, predicted today that his team would come under the wire first in the Southern association race.

"I'd rather attempt a daily double than speculate on a baseball race," Murray said. "It's much safer and the results are quicker."

"I pick the teams today and I look pretty bad next fall, maybe."

"Seriously, I don't see how any team can beat us out. Of course, anything can happen during the course of five months in injuries and so on—but right now we look as good as anybody in the league and, I think, better."

"Atlanta, working in several new men and benefit of Williams and Thomas, two of their best pitchers a year ago, will not get off to the same blistering start."

"We would have liked them last year but it not been for the fact that they returned the 1935 champions intact and got off to such a long early lead."

"But you can depend on Atlanta being tough always. They'll get the players they need. I wouldn't attempt a first division without New Orleans. Larry Gilbreth always brings his boys up. Birmingham which finished in a magnificent rush last year, should be strong again."

"I can't see Chattanooga, a team that many of the fellows are picking for a contender. There's a lot to be done with them and I'm not so positive Washington will be so generous with them."

"Little Rock probably will head second division. Knoxville and Memphis need replacements."

Murray said he thought the Vols would start the season in better shape than at any time since he became connected with the club.

GATORS DEPART.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Champions of the Fourth Army Corps area, the University of Florida rifle team leaves today for Auburn, Ala., to seek the Southeastern conference title.

out to where the young lady lived, take some rocks, wind up and heave them through the front window. He used a pitcher's wind-up for his throw.

When they put him in front of the window at the police station to register him on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct, the sergeant asked him his name.

"Walter Johnson, the greatest fast ball pitcher in the world," he said. "Did you see my fast ball tonight?"

It cost him $25 and the cost of the broken glass in the girl friend's front door. And she never cared for him thereafter.

BUSTER BROWN.

Buster Brown, the glass-eating first baseman of the Vols some years ago, was another Southern leaguer who did a "stretch."

The Buster, who was a very tough young man, and given to strong drink and emotions, succumbed to the charms of a young woman in the town.

The first day of his marriage he became engaged in a terrific row with the umpire.

"You blankety-blank so-and-so," he said, "if that little lady in the stands had not married me and made a gentleman of me, I would push your ugly face in."

The Buster was a gentleman for a day. But it didn't take.

CANARIES SING CHOPIN.

Joe Engel, over at Chattanooga, is to have a live deer as a mascot for Clyde (Old Deerfoot) Milan's ball club this season.

The first year Joe was in the league he had canaries hung in cages throughout the grandstand. They sang very cheerfully for the first week.

But after watching the Lookouts perform for a month, they could sing only Chopin's funeral march and became so sad they had to be removed.

NOLAN TACKLES JORDAN TONIGHT

Paddy Nolan, the wild Irish grappler, will be given a chance to meet Taran Ben Jordan in a return match at the North Side arena tonight and he states these moments will be the happiest in his wrestling life.

Last week, the Irishman met Bill Collins, one of the toughest wrestlers in the south, in a slam-bang affair. Both matmen went after each other from the start of the bell. Nolan took the first fall in a very few minutes and finally sent his opponent over the ropes five consecutive times.

Bill landed the last time in an ambulance bound for a hospital.

Now the tough Irishman promises the local star just such a beating when they meet. However, he does not rate Jordan a champion and contends he has defeated tougher men.

The semi-final match will see two new grapplers in action.

Mike Cassidy, Omaha, will tackle Red Smith, former athlete from Texas Christian University.

Smith comes here from Florida, where he has been wrestling for three months. His newspaper clippings show he has won over nine of the best grapplers in the south.

Bull Montana, one of the fastest midgets ever to come to Smith, will again make his appearance here. He will tackle Joe Wheeler in the opening match.

Sacred Heart Plays At Augusta Saturday

On Saturday morning the Sacred Heart basketball squad, accompanied by over 50 students, together with parents and members of the faculty, will leave for Augusta to play Mount St. Joseph in their annual basketball contest. The game will be played on the private court at 4:30 o'clock.

The Augusta hostesses will honor the visitors at a banquet and dance Saturday night.

Among those who have made reservations on the private cars are: Misses Sarah Brown, Frances Bussey, Noel Bussey, Mary Jane Baker, Marian Gillooly, Catherine Gillooly, Margaret O'Shea, Mary Agnes Elder, Margaret Thompson, Barbara Van Mansfield, Margaret Manning, Gloria Jones, Betty Carver, Ernestine Egart, Patsey Oches, Norma Wilde, Mary Bouliane, Margaret Bouliane, Rosemary Callahan, Eleanor Broome, Shirley Greene, Annette Reilly, Whilamena Epler, Mary Agnes Sullivan, Dannel Archer, Anne Murphy, Dorothy Harrison, Lorraine Flynn, Nina Harrington, Carolyn Reed, Bertha N. Rosenbloom, Hood Victors at Dallas

DALLAS, Texas, March 11.—(UP) Maxie Rosenbloom, the slapstick ring veteran from Los Angeles and New York, scored a decisive victory over Tom Beaupre, of Dallas, in a 10-round fight here tonight.

The semi-windup Billy Hood, of Shreveport, and Atlanta, decided Maxie Long, of Dallas, in six rounds.

Conference Asked To Permit Game

By the United Press.

The state senate yesterday adopted a joint resolution asking the Southeastern conference to permit either Georgia or Georgia Tech to participate in a post-season football game here next New Year's Day.

The resolution, already passed by the house, goes to Governor E. D. Rivers for his signature and transmission to conference officials.

COLLEGE STARS CROWDING WAY INTO BASEBALL

Forceful Language, Chew of Tobacco Is Fast Passing Away.

By Dillon Graham.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—It's getting so a baseball player can't say "ain't" without some college-bred teammate lifting an eyebrow.

At the rate college athletes have been invading baseball, it apparently won't be long before a majority can tag a degree after their names.

Not so long ago players were judged somewhat by the forcefulness of their language and the size of their chew of tobacco. Now managers are interested in their college experience and who coached them.

Several youngsters getting trials at major league spring camps came straight from university campuses.

Many American league stars are college men. Luke Appling, Chicago shortstop who won the batting championship last season, played at Oglethorpe in Georgia.

Other former college stars include: Billy Sullivan, of Notre Dame, with Cleveland; Zeke Bonura, of Loyola (New Orleans), with Chicago; Luke Sewell, of Alabama, with Chicago; Rick Ferrell, of Guilford, with Boston; Johnny Brown, of Yale, with New York; Frank Higgins, of Texas, with Boston; Johnny Murphy, of Fordham, and Irving Hadley, of Brown, with the Yankees; Bill Werber, of Duke, with the A's; Fred Sington, former Alabama All-American football tackle, with Washington; Red Rolfe, of Dartmouth, with the Yankees; and Roy Bell, of Texas A. & M., with St. Louis.

He will do some fancy pitching, in addition to demonstrating the different turns.

For instance, a member of the audience will be asked to rest his chin on the stake and Nunamaker will ring it. That is the stake. He hasn't had to buy any chins since he has been pitching shoes, which amounts to 15 years.

He will throw ringers over a blanket with the peg concealed; he will throw over a hat without disturbing the hat; he will throw over a person sitting in front of the stake; he will light matches and put them out, and he will do other things that seem incredible but actually happen.

There are four ways of throwing ringers, with the three-quarter turn, the one and one-quarter turn, the one and three-quarter turn, and the two and three-quarter turn.

He's master of one and all. By request, he will throw a ringer using any one of the four turns.

Nunamaker employs a grip on the shoe much the same as a golfer does on a club. And the swing and follow through, like in golf, are essential parts of the game.

Horse shoe pitching with Nunamaker, whose home is in Cleveland when he's home, is a science.

The shoes always go into the base of the peg, face open. There isn't any ring-around-the-rosy business.

Horse shoe pitchers and all others interested in seeing a man who can do one thing better than anybody else are urged to see the exhibition Saturday.

Nunamaker is not world's champion today obviously because the last tournament was held on the Pacific coast

JACOBS BRANDS BRADDOCK-LOUIS FIGHT 'A PHONEY'

Maxie's Manager Points Out Discrepancies in Gould Statement.

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—If nothing else, the heavyweight hulla-balloo is crashing the headlines and it's barely possible that's what the boys want.

Joe Jacobs, Max Schmeling's American manager, kept the pot boiling today by branding the Jim Braddock-Joe Louis Chicago fight "a phoney," and said that Braddock realizes he has a bona-fide contract with Madison Square Garden to meet Schmeling on June 3.

Joe Gould, Braddock's manager, tipped the world off that the Chicago fight is a phoney when he said he'd fight Schmeling in Berlin for $400,000, "roared Jacobs. "He's supposed to get $500,000 for fighting Louis, and now he says he'll fight Schmeling for $400,000. Something screwy there, ain't it?"

Fight managers, as a rule, aren't interested in facts and Jacobs apparently is no exception. Gould did rally quickly to Schmeling's offer of $250,000 and motion picture rights which he figures will net another $150,000, but not as a swap for the Chicago fight.

Gould figures if Schmeling boosts the guarantee to $400,000 flat, he and Braddock can handle both fights. The champion's manager expressed the belief that, if necessary, the Chicago engagement, scheduled for June 22, can be postponed.

So it looks like Yussel went down swinging on the "phoney" angle.

On his other "discovery," Jacobs said Gould and Braddock "for" the contract they have with Madison Square Garden.

"He (Gould) also stipulated that we'd have to get them out of the law suit with the Garden," said Jacobs. "Doesn't that prove he and Braddock realize they have a bona-fide contract with the Garden? It certainly does."

Schmeling's offer of a quarter-of-a-million dollars and motion picture and radio rights is tops, Jacobs said.

and he wasn't able to get there. A fellow named Allen is the champion. "He's a nice fellow," says Nunamaker. "I hope to compete against his this summer."

It should be a great match. For, if Allen is any better than Nunamaker, he's bound to be perfect. The perfect man has not been discovered to date. And so, it would be a match. No doubt about that.

Naps, Seminary In Clash Tonight

North Avenue Presbyterian, undefeated for the past three seasons and with 42 straight victories, closes its basketball season at 7:30 o'clock tonight, on the Atlanta Athletic Club court with Washington Seminary as opponents.

The Naps have made probably the greatest record of any girls' basketball team in the south.

soon, even if the Dodger fans have to take up a collection.

Another strange situation exists in Cincinnati where the only holdouts are the irrepressible Floyd (Babe) Herman and Pitcher Don Brennan.

Elsewhere in the senior loop the situation is more serious. Paul Waner, Pittsburgh's batting champion, is the only holdout on his club.

The Chicago Cubs' star outfielder, Frank Demaree, is also out. Reliable figures on his wants are not available, but Demaree refuses to "split the difference" with the Cubs.

Dolph Camilli, Phillies' first baseman, is a holdout for $15,000, just $3,000 more than offered. Buck Jordan, Boston Bees' rebel, wants $4,000 more than the club's $8,000 offer, and has been told he can trade himself—if he can.

Paul Waner Balks For a $500 Raise.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 11.—(UP) Unless the Pittsburgh Pirates meet his demand for $500 additional, Paul Waner, last year's National League batting champ, said today he will retire from baseball this year.

WILTS WHISKERS LIMP—"STARCHLESS" THESE FAMOUS ATHLETES AGREE

EDDIE SHORE, veteran hockey ace and one of the hardest hitting defense players in the leagues, says: "My beard is tougher than rhinoceros hide, but believe me it takes a real cream to soak it soft. That's why I've used Williams for years."

ED "STRANGLER" LEWIS, former World's Heavyweight Wrestling Champion and long a veteran of the mat, says of Williams: "If there's one tough beard in this country, it's mine. Of all the shaving creams I've ever tried, none takes the 'starch' out of my whiskers as quickly and thoroughly as Williams! It makes them soft, pliable, easy for my razor to cut through."

"Twin-Action" Shaving Cream Softens Tough Outer Skin... Wilts Whiskers Down to Base

Soaks Whiskers Softer

A special homogenizing process gives Williams a greater capacity to hold water than ordinary creams.

1. Soaks the "starch" out of whiskers quicker.
2. Softens scaly outer skin—allows razor to cut off each hair at the base. Try a tube.

WELTERWEIGHT CHAMPION Barney Ross says: "There's plenty of punch in Williams. It knocks the stiffness out of my whiskers—gives me the cleanest, smoothest shave I've ever had. A dash of Aqua Velva is cool and refreshing after shaving."

That's why thousands of tough-bearded men are now using Williams "Twin-Action" Shaving Cream. They've found Williams knocks the starch stiffness out of whiskers—no matter how tough and wiry they are. Its rich, wet lather penetrates to the base of each hair—soaks and softens the scaly outer skin on your face. Off come whiskers at the skin line, cleanly, smoothly. Get relief from razor burn. Try a tube of Williams today.

You'll find a dash of Aqua Velva gives a cool, refreshing finish to your morning shave. It's an astringent. Closes pores... fights off irritation. Gives your face that "air-conditioned" feel.

AGGIES UPSET SEED TEAM

Blue Jackets Defeat A. M. A., of Fort Defiance, 30-24.

LEXINGTON, Va., March 11.—(AP) The two top seeded teams—John Marshall High, of Richmond, Va., and Western High, of Washington, D. C.—were eliminated from the 18th annual South Atlantic interscholastic basketball tournament at Washington and Lee in stunning upsets tonight. John Marshall, defending South Atlantic champion and Virginia State titleholder, was trounced in a preliminary heat, 31 to 22, by a towering St. John's quintet, of Washington. Western High, second seeded team, went down before the Monroe (Ga.) Aggies, 26 to 22.

Georgia High, of Savannah, Ga., state champions, will open the quarter-finals tomorrow afternoon against Staunton Military Academy, military prep champions of Virginia.

Marshall Risks Title Against Brown Tonight

Everett Marshall, world's heavy-weight wrestling champion, will risk his title against Orville Brown, one of the ranking challengers, in the top attraction of an imposing wrestling show at the Atlanta theater tonight. It is Frank Speer's greatest card, and indications point to a complete sellout, with one of the heaviest advance sales on record reported.

Cowboy Luttrell, current No. 1 bad man in this vicinity, and Doro Roche, a favorite here for years, clash in a semi-final that bids fair to get the crowd on its feet long before the championship and challenger make their appearance. Roche's adeptness with his fists should give the villainous Cowboy as much opposition as he can handle. Luttrell's taped wrist notwithstanding.

Bill Lee, only a year off the college gridiron and well on his way to the mat title with 35 straight wins, goes against his toughest opponent in a local ring when he tackles Milo Steinbohn, strongest of all wrestlers. It will be the acid test for the former Alabama All-American.

Everett Marshall, called the Adonis of the Mat, is making his first appearance in Atlanta and the south to-

FOUR-BALL MEET HALTED BY RAIN

MIAMI, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—A steady rain today caused postponement until tomorrow of the match between Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta and Lawson Little and Tony Manero in the final of the international four-ball golf tournament.

It was the second postponement of the tournament. Rain caused the second 18 holes of the second round Monday to be put over to Tuesday.

GOLDEN MILLER TO BE FAVORED

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—Dorothy Paget's Golden Miller, the winner in 1934, today became the favorite for the Grand National Steeplechase to be run at Aintree March 19.

The Miller was quoted at 100 to 12 with H. Lloyd Thomas, Royal Mail the second choice at 100 to 9. Two American-owned candidates, Robert Lehman's Didoric and J. B. Snow's Delachance, shared the next place at 100 to 7 with Sir D. Llewellyn's Ego. Vivian Smith's Ready Cash, which held the favorite's position on Monday at 12 to 1, was quoted at 50 to 1 today after his stable reported he was a doubtful starter.

Snow's Delachance was quoted at 25 to 1 and Frank Gould's What Have You, only American-bred horse in the field, at 40 to 1.

The Cheltenham Gold Cup race, a trial race for Grand National candidates, was cancelled today because of bad weather.

It's Team, Not Record, That Interests 'Dutch'

Leonard Figures Crackers Stronger; Sees 20 Victories; Valuable Asset to Club.

By Jack Troy.

In addition to his ability to win his share of baseball games, Emil (Dutch) Leonard, the Crackers' knuckle ball pitcher, is regarded as a great team man.

He wants to see the Crackers win regardless of who gets the credit. A good team man is worth three or four stars who are jealous of their average; who want to get along well themselves irrespective of what happens to the team.

So Leonard, a pitcher of great ability, is a very valuable asset to the Crackers because of his "team interest" alone.

Writing yesterday from Panama City, Fla., where he is soaking up sunshine and playing a bit of golf, Leonard said:

AT LEAST 20.
"I don't like to say how many I'll win, as one never knows what might happen. I am hoping to win at least

"I'll give all I've got, Jack, to give Atlanta a winning ball club."

There's a team man for you. Leonard willingly will work as often as he can either in a starting or relief role and gladly let the credit fall where it may.

Leonard said he was getting along splendidly, but believed he would have to take it easy on the ball field for at least the first week.

"I very much think we have a wonderful chance to win the pennant again."

Marshall Maudlin, Atlanta's new center fielder, sensed as a member of the Knoxville club last season, that Leonard was a great team man.

He had noticed that when Leonard wasn't working in a game, he was pulling as hard from the bench as he would have pitched from the mound.

TEAM MAN, TOO.
Maudlin, who was the league-leading center fielder and voted by Knoxville fans as the Smokies' most valuable player, is a real team man.

"I think Leonard easily is the best pitcher in the Southern league," Maudlin says.

"And there's something that really puzzles me. Why is it that he never got a real chance to stick in the big leagues?"

"I'm telling you I stayed up there a year on the White Sox bench and I've faced many a pitcher who didn't have nearly so much stuff."

"It's a real mystery to me. On the other hand, it's a great break for the Crackers to have such a man on the club."

It remains something of a mystery, at that, Leonard had one fine year with Brooklyn. The next year he didn't get much work.

President Earl Mann looked at Leonard's earned-run average and said, "There's a pitcher we could use."

GREAT SHOWING.
And so the Crackers got him on option last year. Joining the club just before midseason, Leonard went to work and won 13 games, losing three. He was the league-leading pitcher and topped all hurlers in earned-run average.

Leonard, after this showing, was traded to St. Louis by Brooklyn. The Crackers promptly negotiated for his purchase.

It remains a mystery why Brooklyn, a team that certainly could use good pitchers, didn't consider keeping him. And why the Cards sold him without looking him over.

However, it's an ill wind that blows nobody good. Leonard is satisfied to play with the Crackers. He looks upon Atlanta as do many, many others, as the ace town in the minor leagues. He'd rather be in the Southern league with Earl Mann than in any Double-A league.

He'll be a leader, in many ways, in the fight to win the third straight pennant.

INSTALLMENT I.

As the low-built, long-bodied car, with the absurd slipper dangling helplessly from its back axle, turned slowly out of the confetti-strewn driveway, Heather Ashton sighed, and stooped to pick up a white flower which had fallen from Betty's bouquet when she came back from church.

It was over, this second family wedding which had required so much planning and contriving, and hard work to make it the success it undoubtedly had been.

Heather's eyes followed a little wistfully the car that bore Betty and her husband away. It disappeared at an abrupt turn, leaving only the hard sun-baked road, with its high dusty hedges.

Betty had insisted upon being an orthodox bride in spite of the difficulties of money. She had overruled Heather's objections by saying lightly: "Well, if Caesar won't pay, I'll get Stephen to settle up after we're married."

She quite lost sight of the fact that it was a sheer impossibility for Caesar to pay, and she had only laughed when Heather said in dismay, "But it's not right for the bridegroom to bear the expense of the wedding."

"Anything's right today," she had declared. "Besides he's got pots of money."

Heather sometimes wondered if that was the reason Betty married him. She liked him of course, but then could anyone help liking Stephen? He was so kind and cheery. The quick smile came again as Heather remembered a little ruefully that it was she who had first made Stephen's acquaintance, and that it had been to see her that he had first come to the house.

She had never wanted to marry him, of course, still it did seem a little hard that Betty, all youth and light-heartedness, should calmly annex him, taking it for granted that Heather, as usual, would retire into the background.

As the children and Caesar never failed to remind her, "You're the eldest, Heather darling." Not that any of them were really "children" any longer, for Bobbie, the youngest, who had cost their mother her life, was nearly 17.

Seventeen! It seemed impossible that for as many years she had been mother, housekeeper, and general adviser to her father and brothers and sisters, denying her own youth, and trying not to see that Caesar should miss as few of his comforts as possible.

"Caesar," Heather smiled faintly at the familiar nickname. They could never agree as to who had originated it—they all claimed the honor.

She forgot, just as every one else forgot, that but for Heather life would have been a much more sorry affair for them all. They were all so "used to" Heather that they took her as much for granted as any old piece of furniture in the house. In their way of thinking, she was just a selfish, love, and none of them ever thought of protesting when Heather said, "I'll stay at home—you others go." Nobody ever objected when Heather made her old clothes "do" so that Betty and Effie could have a new frock.

Heather was 34 now. There was a gap of three years between her and John, and then another gap of five years before the others came trooping on one another's heels with hardly breathing space between them. It was because they all took Heather so much for granted that none of the family really understood her or knew much about her. They never dreamed, for instance, that she suffered a very real little pang when Stephen so calmly transferred his attentions to Betty—not that she had been in the least in love with him but he had been her friend in the first place and she had liked him, and had valued his friendship.

Neither would they have believed it had they been told that when their mother died, Heather sent away the only real sweetheart she had ever known because she had felt it impossible to desert Caesar and the family. She might have married him then. He had begged that she would, and when finally he had gone abroad to take up an appointment which would have kept them both in greater comfort than she had ever enjoyed, she stood on the platform watching the train carry him away, her face all white and bleak, and yet smiling bravely as he leaned out of the carriage window to grasp her hand and say: "Oh, Heather, won't you?"

Her courage had almost broken down then, but she had thought of Bobbie—not yet a year old—and Caesar, and all the others, and she had remembered her mother too, and she had whispered back, "I can't dear—you know I can't."

He had written several times, but she had not answered.

What was the use, she asked herself, and so after a few months the letters had stopped.

It had hurt at first, terribly, but it was so long ago now that she could think of him without a pang, and hope that he was happy and successful.

Not that she had been unhappy since; her life had been too occupied for that. But sometimes—as when Paul went away and shut them all out of his life, and today when Betty had gone—she had been conscious of an ever-growing loneliness. The family seemed to be breaking up so quickly, leaving her behind, and when they had all gone—what then?

She was 34, and sometimes she felt many years older, when she was tired and her head ached, and the house-keeping bills were difficult to meet, and Caesar was more tiresome than usual and Bobbie would be late home from school, and altogether life seemed too much to cope with, so that all she wanted was to lie down and sleep the rest of it away.

Effie, the delicate one of the family, and as they had never dared to send her to school, it had fallen to Heather to "give her lessons"—a difficult job, and a surprise to the spoiled one, Betty said Effie was a spade.

Heather looked back upon all this as she stood in the sunshine listening to the laughter and voices of the wedding party who were now slowly streaming into the garden again, and she realized how fortunate it was that her life should have been so full, so that she never found time to think of herself.

Bobbie broke away from the crowd and ran towards her. "We're going to London, to a theater, all of us," she said excitedly. "Dinah says she's got seats—a surprise!"

Heather said quickly, "But we can't leave Caesar alone—then looking at Dinah, who had been chief bridesmaid because she was Stephen Miller's sister, she realized that they had not included her in this "surprise" and she added hastily, "but there'll be me of course—so he won't mind. I've got heaps to do—all this muddle to clear up."

Bobbie said hesitatingly, "You ought to come too," and then as she shook her head, she frowned and slipped a hand through her arm. "You're always the one to stay at home," he protested. "Bobbie was the only one whose conscience occasionally pricked him with regard to his eldest sister."

"Nonsense," she said cheerily. "I couldn't go anyway. . . . What time are you going—and how?" and immediately she realized that perhaps they would want their railway fares—Bobbie and Effie.

But Dinah answered quickly, "We've got three cars among us, and we can all pack in if nobody minds a squeeze."

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

You can't flirt your way into a waiting line.

A waiting line is an American institution with which a girl should never try to flirt. If you think you can wedge your way into the front of the line by flashing your million-dollar smile on the man who is second, you're off on the wrong foot. A million-dollar smile isn't going to make up for all the time he has spent waiting to get near the ticket window. He'll fight for his place, even when faced with the most fascinating eyelash in the world.

The rule is first come, first serve, and even Simpson couldn't make that mind about that.

Our advice is to stick to the rule. If you start using your charm on impossible things, you'll find that pretty soon you won't be considered charming at all. You'll just be considered fresh. And you wouldn't like that, would you, you over there with the curly bangs?

A full-grown male gorilla may stand more than six feet tall. Sometimes he is seen leaning against a tree. His common method of moving is on "all-fours," but he can walk on his hind legs, using one of his forelimbs as a prop from time to time.

CHEMURGIC ADVANCES WILL SOLVE TENANCY PROBLEM, LEADER SAYS

South on Verge of Agricultural Renaissance, Council Director Holds.

Epoch-making chemurgic developments make it possible for 12 southern states to add $1,500,000,000 to their annual earning power within the next 10 years and employ 3,000,000 persons, Dr. Carl B. Fritzsche, chemurgic expert, said last night.

Dr. Fritzsche, managing director of the National Farm Chemurgic Council, said the south is on the verge of an industrial and agricultural renaissance because of chemurgic tests in the paper industry, development of starch from sweet potatoes, the tung oil industry and manufacture of denatured ethyl alcohol. He addressed members of the Georgia legislature yesterday.

"The south can lift itself up to or above the economic status of any other section within 10 years by capitalizing on the theories science now has made real in chemurgy (chemurgy as applied to farm products)," Fritzsche said.

Farm Tenancy Solution. "This program, in my opinion, is the best solution to the troublesome farm tenancy problem," he declared. "Just as Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said recently, it now is almost impossible for many tenants to buy homes because they can not make enough money off cotton and the other usual crops to get ahead."

"This renaissance, through production of products necessary for the four-fold program outlined, eventually will require 25,000,000 acres of land. It will mean work, and cash money, for tenants 15 months in the year, whereas there now are many months during which practically no income is available."

"Tenants, therefore, will have the money to buy land, build homes—one of the greatest sociological things that could happen to the south. Wide-spread ownership of homes is a better stand-by to maintaining the integrity of our republic than a standing army."

Additional Possibilities. Dr. Fritzsche also outlined additional possibilities in the manufacture of glycerine from rice, various oils and other products from soy beans, and use of southern products in the glass industry.

Rice economically is more valuable for making glycerine—of which there is an impending world shortage—and other industrial products than as a food, he explained.

"One hundred pounds of rice, for instance, will make 30 pounds of glycerine, 8 pounds of industrial alcohol, and 7 pounds of caesin (used in glue and similar products)."

He predicted "within a generation soy beans will have a bigger commercial value than corn—of which a minimum of 2,500,000,000 bushels is produced yearly."

The south, he continued, imports $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 worth of glass annually, but could make most of it because practically all constituent parts are found in this area.

Dr. Fritzsche outlined part of his plans in an address before the Georgia house of representatives.

He said that the loss of world cotton markets was "rendering the south the greatest possible service. It will make it realize and take advantage of the new opportunities."

Prior to the World War the south produced 60 per cent of the world's cotton supply; now it produces 39 per cent.

Pulp Experiments. Dr. Fritzsche said experiments in paper and pulp manufacturing from slash pine at Savannah, Ga., had resulted in construction of 13 paper plants in the south during the past 16 months, 11 of which manufacture kraft paper, one book paper and the other newsprint—the latter is under way at Longview, Texas.

"This development is coming from the expenditure of only $325,000 by Dr. Herty, whom I regard as the 'crown prince and the aristocrat, and the new Eli Whitney of the south,'" he said. "Within 10 years I predict 100 such paper mills in the south—because there is a market for as much as 100 can manufacture."

He explained that an experimental plant at Laurel, Miss., was making a "superior" grade of white bleached starch from sweet potatoes and that it would take an additional 200 such mills to supply the demand—now met by importation of tapioca starch.

AUSTRALIA'S DECLINE SEEN. A decline in Australia's population is inevitable within 40 years because of the absence of a vigorous population policy, S. R. Wolstenholme, lecturer in economics at Sydney University, predicts.

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

Story Film at Rialto In 'Women of Glamour'

An intensely interesting picture, filled with emotional power, comes to the screen at the Rialto theater today. It is "Women of Glamour," a Columbia production, directed by Gordon Wiles and boasting a brilliant cast, headed by Virginia Bruce and Melvyn Douglas and including Reginald Denney, Pert Kelton, Thurston Hall, Leona Maricle and Mary Forbes.

The story of the redemption of a night club girl, a thoroughly unscrupulous gold-digger, it packs a powerful punch for all who are fascinated by the emotional conflict between people in love who yet fail to recognize their condition.

It opens with a penthouse party given by Melvyn Douglas, an artist. Drunk, he breaks up the party and drives into the country, until he is halted by a blowout. He tosses away a bottle of liquor which almost hits the playgirl in the head. She, too, is running out on a party, rowing alone in a small boat from a wild affair on a private yacht.

The girl goes with the artist and becomes his model. He is engaged to a society girl and there is at once an interesting situation between the two girls and the man.

Manager Murray has surrounded his feature with an exceptionally alluring group of short subjects. "Women of Glamour" is booked for one week, through Thursday, next.

'Outcast' at Paramount Is Story of Mob Fury

"Outcast," a dramatic story of mob fury with Warren William and Karen Morley, comes to the Paramount theater today. Taken from the novel, "Happiness Preferred," by Frank R. Adams, "Outcast" is the story of a physician, William, who is ruined by Miss Morley, who believes him guilty of murder. Not satisfied with wrecking his career in the city in which he had been established, she trails him to a small village where he had taken refuge.

Lewis Stone, a lawyer who had befriended the physician, persuades Miss Morley to delay her vengeance until she is sure of the physician's guilt. She agrees and soon falls in love with the man she swore to destroy. A newspaper learns of William's past and exposes him and he becomes an outcast again. He is called upon to perform an emergency operation on a child. Through the meddling of a townswoman, the child dies.

The newspaper's and the townswoman's exhortations of the child's mother whip the townfolk into a mob. A mob forms and sets out for William and Miss Morley, bringing the drama to a powerful and thrilling climax.

"Outcast" was directed by Robert Florey with his usual fine feeling for the dramatic. William and Miss Morley turn in excellent performance. Stone portrays one of the finest characterizations of his career. The cast also includes little Jackie Moran, child star of "Valiant Is the Word for Carrie"; Christian Rub, Estel Dale, John Gray and two hundred others.

'Family Affair' at Grand Has Lionel Barrymore

"A Family Affair," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new film which starts today at Loew's Grand theater, is the story of a typical American family in a small town.

Lionel Barrymore is cast as the typical head-of-the-house and Eric Linden and Cecilia Parker are teamed again to represent romance in its adolescent phases. Others featured in the cast are Mickey Rooney, Charley Grapewin, Spring Byington, Julie Haydon, Sara Haden, Allen Vincent, Margaret Marquis, Selmer Jackson and Harlan Briggs.

The story is that of a district judge revered by the citizens of a small Idaho city until, by fulfilling the dictates of the law, he balks the building of a great aqueduct that will link the district to a mighty city. His actions cause his family and the whole town to turn against him and scandal is heaped upon the family by his elder daughter, who is about to be divorced.

Barrymore makes a last-minute appearance at the convention which was about to vote against him because of the scandal in his family and his apparent act against the interest of the community. There he scotches the divorce rumor by the presence of his son-in-law and proves that his act was really in the best interests of the community. As the tumult in the convention dies down he is re-elected by popular acclaim.

The latest M-G-M. crime thriller, "Torture Money," a M-G-M. musical tabloid, "Bars and Stripes," and "News of the Day" complete the program.

FULTON WELFARE BODY REVAMPING APPROVED

The house of representatives last night passed the Fulton county bill to abolish the present 12-man board of public welfare. The measure was uncontested. Under the recent statewide act boards of public welfare in the various counties are limited to five.

The measure was sent to the senate where it is expected to be acted on next week. It is understood that the county commission has selected the new board, and it will be announced as soon as the abolition of the old board goes through the routine of enactment.

'Lloyds, London' at Fox Spook Show Saturday

Against the turbulent canvas of adventure and intrigue which forms the pulse-stirring background of "Lloyds of London," the picture that has startled two continents and which opens today at the Fox theater, there stands out one of the great love stories of all times, when fierce courage and vengeful fury fought to the death for a love that flamed while the fate of an empire hung in the balance.

Packed with the thrill of forbidden kisses that changes the destiny of a whole empire, as the fateful lovers forgot everything but that they were man and woman in each others arms, the new Twentieth Century-Fox triumph tells the story of human passions that were inextricably woven with the course of history.

When Freddie Bartholomew, as young Jonathan Blake, and Douglas Scott, as the youthful Horatio Nelson, discover a plot to scuttle a ship and collect the insurance from Lloyds, the boyhood friends determine to warn "Mr. Lloyd" of the plot. At the last moment, Horatio's uncle takes him off to sea, and Freddie sets out alone on the hundred mile walk to London.

Also at the Fox at 11:30 o'clock on Saturday night there will be one of the spookiest shows you have ever seen. On the stage Jackie and his de-spook show is a special attraction. The screen preview is the side-splitting mystery comedy "One Frightened Night" starring Charley Grapewin, Mary Carlisle, Arthur Hohl and Hedda Hopper.

Story of Death House Announced at Capitol

How an innocent man may be sentenced to die, through the combined forces of a gangster frame-up, a political ambitious district attorney and false testimony prompted by misguided public opinion, is vividly revealed in "We Who Are About to Die," which will open next week in engagement at the Capitol Sunday with Preston Foster, Ann Dvorak and John Beal in the featured roles.

This picture was filmed from a story which was written by David Lumsden at the time he was in the deathhouse sentenced to die for the bathtub murder of his wife. He was later set free when a new trial proved his innocence, but his daily contacts with the men of "condemned row" gave him the necessary background to write "We Who Are About to Die," which is said to be one of the most unusual stories of its kind ever brought to the screen.

"Girls of Today," a new vaudeville revue, will be the stage offering, also starting Sunday.

On the screen today through Saturday, the Capitol has "The Case of the Black Cat," starring Ricardo Cortez and June Travis, with eight acts of vaudeville on the stage.

tive a report on conditions in France and other European countries.

With the first of his supreme court reorganization speeches behind him and the senate judiciary committee now engaged in hearings on the controversial federal judiciary bill, the President plans to enjoy himself "at Warm Springs. He is expected to spend the time quietly, devoting a part of each day to swimming in the foundation pool and driving about the countryside, but maintaining close contact with official developments in Washington all the while.

From his Georgia retreat also he may be expected to give quiet consideration to the demands for further speeches on the court issue, studying the reaction of the country measured by the voluminous correspondence that has swamped the White House since his recent fireside talk.

Originally it had been the President's plan to make a large part of the trip through Georgia by automobile. He had expressed a desire to leave the train at Columbus, S. C., and to proceed from there to Augusta, thence to Louisville, Sandeville, Milledgeville or Dublin and to Macon, where the journey would be resumed by train.

But only a few days ago it was determined this would be impossible on the present visit. At some later time he may find the opportunity for the motor drive, it was suggested.

Others in the party are Miss Margaret Le Hand, the President's personal secretary; Miss Grace Tully and Miss Roberta Barrows, of the secretarial staff; Dr. Ross T. McIntire, White House physician; George Fox, his assistant; Miss Louise Hackmeister and Edward W. Smithers, of the White House communications division.

The newspaper, newswire and photographic contingents include a score of representatives of press associations and newspapers regularly assigned to cover the White House in Washington.

Mr. Roosevelt said on his departure that one of the first things he will give his attention to on his return to Washington will be to work out details for the relief program for the coming year.

WARM SPRINGS READY TO GREET PRESIDENT

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., March 11. (P)—This quiet town is ready to welcome President Roosevelt to his "other home" Friday morning with a few handshakes and a neighborly wave.

Despite the presence of a detachment of United States marines at the Warm Springs Foundation, townspeople are attending their business as usual.

They have no definite plans for his visit, except to let him go about resting as he pleases.

Some time while he is here they hope he will come over to dedicate their new city hall and a school house that New Deal funds helped build.

At the foundation, which President Roosevelt developed for treatment of the after effects of infantile paralysis, patients are "playing polio" (their name for poliomyelitis treatment) without contemplated change in schedule for entertaining the chief executive.

Awaits "The Boss."

Otis Moore, manager of the President's 2,800-acre farm on Pine Mountain, today says to the final cleanup of the after effects of infantile paralysis, patients are "playing polio" (their name for poliomyelitis treatment) without contemplated change in schedule for entertaining the chief executive.

"During the eight years I have been manager," he said, "Mr. Roosevelt has always come over in the fall when things were dormant. This time he can watch us plow, and maybe we'll do some planting."

The busiest "fixing up" is being done at the Warm Springs Foundation, where Administrator Henry Hooper today says to the final cleanup of the after effects of infantile paralysis, patients are "playing polio" (their name for poliomyelitis treatment) without contemplated change in schedule for entertaining the chief executive.

TURNER IS IDENTIFIED BY HOLDUP VICTIMS

C. Wright, Putnam county educator, in 1925.

Turner's brother, Chester Turner, is serving a sentence on the Cherokee county gang, but Turner made no attempt to "spring" him when Scarborough escaped.

"The kid's only got a few more months to go, and I would have made trouble for him trying to get him out," police quoted Turner as saying. "If I'd wanted to spring him, though, I would have done it."

W. C. Tribble, laundry truck driver, identified both Turner and Colton as the men who held him up in the 1900 block of Dill avenue last January 27, taking $23 in cash.

Victor Bowman, operator of a cafe at Alto, Ga., identified Turner as one of three bandits who held up his establishment last February 20, escaping with $150 in cash, a watch, two slot machines and a 32-20 caliber revolver.

Weapon Identified. This weapon, according to police, was found on Turner when he was captured. Bowman identified the weapon as his property last night.

E. R. Hobbs, operator of a filling station at Columbus, Ga., identified Turner as the man who held up the station last Saturday night, in which $32 in cash and a watch were taken. This watch, police said, was found on Turner. He maintained he bought it.

C. R. Hollifield, operator of a gasoline station at 1730 Peachtree street, and a negro attendant, Son Rutledge, also identified Turner and Colton as the men who held up the station last February 21, taking $15 in cash and $40 in checks.

Colton and Turner were also identified by C. W. McMillen, of 1034 Hill street, who was robbed of $4, his watch and automobile last December 27, in the 700 block of Pulliam street.

"Ribs" Detective. Turner continued his "ribbing" of Detective Nahlik, saying, "I sure would like to help them make you a patrolman. You're too good at this detective stuff."

Both Colton and Turner regretted, they said, the shooting of Warden R. P. McMillen, of the Thomas county chain gang, who was slightly wounded as the convicts were being transported from Fulton tower to the prison camp recently.

"It was more of a mistake than anything," police quoted Colton as saying.

Colton also told the detectives that Turner, following the shooting, said to the warden: "I know it won't do any good for me to pray for myself, but I sure will be praying for you to get over that wound."

After the lineup was held, Turner was placed in a lone cell on the third floor of police headquarters. Extra precautions were taken, as rumors reached detectives an attempt might be made to "spring" him.

Colton was returned here from Savannah by Fulton County Deputy Sheriffs W. R. Joyner and Bill Stanley.

DEATH SENTENCE FIXED FOR SLAYER OF TWO

HORNELL, N. Y., March 11.—(P)—Convicted of complicity in the murder of two elderly reclusive brothers more than four years ago, Anthony Sil-notti, of Johnson City, today was sentenced to death in the electric chair. The mandatory sentence was imposed by Supreme Court Justice Love after the 25-year-old justice dealer had waived stay of sentence. Date of execution was set for the week of April 26 at Sing Sing prison.

The jury found the defendant guilty of aiding in the killing of Frank and William Van Cise during a robbery at their home at Beeman's Hollow, near Addison.

U. S. Market Letter

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The very sharp rise in the cotton market in early March brought the prices on future deliveries above 14 cents a pound and the spot market average reached fairly close to that level. New York quoted spot prices higher since 1930. The advance was in response to rising foreign markets and continued active domestic buying. Exports are catching up with last season's movement.

The outlook is promising for consumption of cotton textiles and raw cotton in the near future as a result of the large volume of unfilled orders held by world mills, and increasing industrial activity and trade in the United States and foreign countries.

PASTURES IMPROVING.

Continued improvement in pastures in the south tended to limit the demand for feeds and prices declined. Bran declined $2 at Fort Worth but shorts held firm. Southeastern markets reported slow trade in wheatflour and matings of bran declined to around $36 in Atlanta.

Southern mills quoted cottonseed meal lower at $23.50 to $24 per ton. Feed for hogs and prices declined. Middle west—Forty-two per cent meal in north Texas was steady at $40. Linsaid meal was irregularly lower. Corn feeders declined 75 cents to $1.75 at most markets, reflecting slow inquiry and plentiful supplies.

Prices of farmers' grade peanuts show no advance, but as stocks in the hands of shippers and processors are low, some of them are more inclined to buy, especially at a slightly lower price.

Reports from the south indicate that demand for peanuts to plant has so far been heavier than expected.

PRODUCE CHANGES SMALL.

Shipments of most lines of southern produce were light to moderate and price changes in the large markets generally small, mostly upward. New potatoes were stronger around $1.85 per bushel, but demand was fair in producing sections at $1.65. String beans were in light supply and firm in the north at $2.40 to $2.50 per hamper. Southern cabbage made small price gains. Strawberry prices were weak. Florida pineapples mostly 18 cents to 21 cents in the east and middle west.

EGG MARKETS STRONG.

Egg markets have been active and prices mostly steady. A let-up in relief purchases. Beginning of buying for old storage indicates some confidence that prices are near the low point.

Current receipts, yard run, are steady. Eggs are offered at 18 cents, but are not all sold. Dirty eggs are not at all. Dirty eggs are not at all.

POULTRY.

Supplies of dressed poultry are usually light during the height of the laying season and are hardly more than half as large in April as in January. Arrivals begin to increase again in late spring.

MARKET OUTLOOK.

TARZAN'S QUEST No. 71

The wide-eyed Annette beckoned to Brown and pointed to the bit of burned fabric. With a whistle of keen delight he picked it up, walked over to the prince, and thrust the piece of cloth and, under his eyes, Shorov's face turned a ghastly, ashen gray.

"The blood must have splattered," Brown barked. "That's why you burned the coat you wore when you killed your wife!" "Don't!" Alexis screamed. "My God, don't! I tell you I never touched her." Quickly, however, the prince regained control of himself.

"Yes," he said suavely, "it was my coat, but someone stole it from my luggage." "Tell it to the judge," snapped Brown. Then Jane interrupted sharply: "This matter had best be left to the courts. Our job is to get out of this jungle—if we can."

"I guess you're right," Brown admitted. "Annette found the evidence, so she'd better hold on to it until the time comes." Shorov watched Brown hand the tell-tale bit of fabric to the girl, and he vowed to himself she would never produce it in court!

LOYALISTS CHARGE DUCE OF UNDECLARED WAR IN SPANISH CONFLICT

Red Leaders Say 30,000 Fascists Are Driving Toward Madrid With Rebels.

MADRID, March 11.—(AP)—High government authorities, charging 30,000 Italian soldiers were driving toward Madrid with the insurgent army in Guadalajara, accused Italy tonight of waging an "undeclared war" on Spain.

Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo, on behalf of civil officials, and General Jose Miaja, speaking for the government's military command, said the time had come to drop talk of a civil conflict in Spain and brand the war an international one.

General Miaja, commander of all government troops in central Spain, returned from a tour of the war front and declared his troops were holding their line today, the fourth of intense fighting in the Guadalajara sector northeast of Madrid.

Insurgent forces attacked repeatedly during the day in an effort to extend their advances of the first three days of battle.

The government, digging in strongly, pitted the best units of its air force against the insurgent offensive, sending squadrons on bombing forays over opposing entrenchments and communications while Madrid's most seasoned infantry blocked the highway.

REBELS 32 MILES FROM MADRID

SORIA, Spain, March 11.—(AP)—Squadrons of crack insurgent horsemen roamed the cattle paths of Guadalajara province today, cleaning out snipers in a territory of more than 100 square miles occupied by General Francisco Franco's forces in their sweep towards Madrid.

The insurgents' sustained advance in four days of heavy warfare northeast of Madrid, officers said, had not only pierced the government defense but had hurled the whole line back along a broad front.

The vanguard of the insurgent forces was said to have driven within sight of the city of Guadalajara, provincial capital, 32 miles northeast of Madrid.

FASCISTS ATTACK REPULSED BY REDS

GUADALAJARA, Spain, March 11.—(AP)—Fighting fiercely in a hard, cold rain, government troops were reported tonight to have repulsed an insurgent attack and smashed a tank advance with hand grenades.

Officers declared 20 or 30 insurgent tanks were destroyed by troops hurling grenades in heavy fighting along the Zaragoza road.

A steady downpour, chilling hundreds of the government troops, prevented aerial assaults although six pursuit planes cruised low over the Guadalajara sector as a precaution against a possible bombing attack by the enemy.

The officer in command of government forces in the upper Guadalajara front said that upwards of 30,000 Italians had been halted in a drive down the Zaragoza highway toward this city.

INSURGENTS ANNOUNCE CAPTURE OF FREIGHTER

SALAMANCA, Spain, March 11.—(AP)—Spanish insurgents, announcing capture of the government munitions ship Mar Cantabrico, today described the seizure as a "great naval feat" which "may tend to shorten the war."

The cargo, General Francisco Franco's headquarters said, has been unloaded at Ferrol, a port in northwestern Spain. It was said officially to include seven planes, fifty artillery guns, many bombs, rifles, machine guns, and fourteen million rounds of dum-dum cartridges.

U. S. NEUTRALITY ORDER IS EXPLAINED BY HULL

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(AP)—Secretary Hull, explaining tonight with the state department refused to issue passports to organizations desiring to send relief units to Spain, said the aim was to maintain America's "scrupulous impartiality."

He declared humanitarian needs could best be served through relief activities of the International Red Cross and urged Americans to contribute liberally to it.

MRS. JESSIE BASS DIES AT RESIDENCE

Pioneer Fulton Teacher Was Principal of Four Schools Here.

Mrs. Jessie Orr Bass, pioneer teacher in Fulton county schools and former principal of four schools here, died yesterday at her home, 1014 St. Charles avenue, N. E. She would have been 75 years old March 23.

Born in Oxford, Ga., she had lived in Atlanta since she was 9 years old. She was former principal of the Howell Mill school, the Rock Springs school, the R. J. Guinn school and the Bentline school. She was an active member of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church.

Her husband, the late Howard L. Bass, for many years was a member of the composing room staff of The Constitution.

She is survived by a son, Gustavus J. Bass, of Galveston, Texas; a brother, Angus E. Orr, of Atlanta; three grandchildren, Misses Katherine and Anna Frances Bass, of Opelousa, La., and Miss Ann Eddy, of Montclair, N. J., and three nieces and three nephews.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

KILLED IN AUTO CRASH. MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 11.—(AP)—Harold D. Carr, 29-year-old grocer, died tonight of injuries suffered several hours earlier when his automobile overturned at a street intersection.

Auto Injuries Fatal To 719-Lb. Trouper

FLOMATION, Ala., March 11.—(AP)—"Happy Jack" Eckert, 63, who weighed 739 pounds and called himself the world's fattest man, died tonight in a hospital of injuries inflicted in an automobile accident.

"Happy Jack" was hurt February 7 in a collision of his specially built automobile with a freight truck near here. Several ribs were fractured and he was injured internally.

With his manager, J. E. Brennan, "Happy Jack" was headed for the Mardi Gras parade at Mobile. Brennan's ankles were fractured.

"Jack never had a sick day in his life," Brennan said as Eckert's physicians expressed fear he would not live. "But I guess his age is against him this time," he added.

Eckert, who for years had lived in the automobile involved in the crash, had been on exhibition since he was 10. He crossed the Atlantic with P. T. Barnum's troupe and was costarred with Tom Thumb, the famous midget.

SAFETY-AT-SEA ACT AMENDED BY HOUSE

Measure Now Gives Seamen Identification Card or Record of Service.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(UP)—A compromise amendment designed to eliminate controversy over the continuous discharge book provision of the Copeland safety-at-sea act was passed by the house today in a surprise move.

Early senate action is expected. The measure would give seamen the option of carrying either new identification certificates or the discharge books containing a continuous record of their employment.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, Democrat, New York, chairman of the senate commerce committee and author of the original safety-at-sea legislation, said his committee probably would act on the amendment next Wednesday. He said he would not oppose the proposal if assured it would end controversy among factions of maritime labor.

Amendment Unopposed.

No opposition developed when Representative Schuyler Otis Bland, Democrat, Virginia, chairman of the merchant marine committee, suddenly brought up the amendment under unanimous consent. He said opposing seamen's groups had agreed to the compromise.

Meanwhile, the senate approved a resolution already passed by the house to extend until June 15 the deadline for filing returns on the "windfall" tax levied against companies which withheld AAA processing taxes.

Representative William P. Connery, Democrat, Massachusetts, urged the house rules committee to approve his resolution for investigation of an asserted radio broadcasting monopoly. Opponents of the inquiry will be heard next week.

Connery charged that the three national networks control 96 per cent of all radio time and "I wouldn't be surprised if there is a tieup through interlocking directorates of the three systems." He said he believed the power companies control the broadcasting industry.

"I want to see an investigation of all radio monopolies," Connery added. He said that complaints of censorship against the radio chains came from "independents, education, labor and religion," asserting that "for instance, there is blue pencilling when someone tries to talk about collective bargaining."

Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, Veterans' Bureau administrator, told the house veterans' committee that congress should provide for continuing payments to needy parents and widows of World War veterans when their war risk insurance expires.

He estimated compensation of $50 per month to widows and $30 per month to parents would cost $18,000,000 a year more than present expenditures. He warned that it is necessary to limit the payments to those showing need to prevent prohibitive cost.

MRS. M. H. COCKE DIES AT PRIVATE HOSPITAL

Former Resident of Dawson Was Mother of Erle Cocke, RFC Director.

Mrs. Minnie Huff Cocke, mother of Erle Cocke, manager of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and state director of the National Emergency Council, died yesterday at a private hospital.

She had lived with her son for the past five years at his home at 152 Peachtree way, N. E. She moved to Atlanta from Dawson, Ga., where she had lived for many years and was a leading figure in civic, church and social affairs. She was a prominent member of the Dawson Baptist church.

Her husband was the late J. Perry Cocke, who served several terms in the state senate and house. She was the daughter of Dr. James L. and Mrs. Lou Ann Statham Huff.

In addition to her son here, she is survived by another son, Perry Cocke, of Cordele; two sisters, Mrs. M. E. Jones, of Lumpkin, Ga., and Mrs. J. L. Stanford, of Horatio, Ark., and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at Dawson, with burial in the family mausoleum at Cedar Hill cemetery. Arrangements will be in charge of H. M. Patterson & Son.

COMMUNISM FIGHT IS ASKED OF LIONS

Statewide Meeting Here Hears Birmingham Attorney Sound Action Plea.

A plea for Lions to participate in the "fight against communism" was made here last night by Roderick Beddow, Birmingham attorney and past president of Lions International, at a statewide meeting and banquet of the Atlanta Lions Club, at a downtown hotel.

Brief speeches were also made by Governor Rivers, who welcomed the out-of-town Lions; Mayor Hartford, Ed Murrah, of Columbus, district governor, and George S. Johnson, of LaGrange, past district governor.

The attendance banner was won by the Chatsworth Lions Club, with 22 of its 25 members present. Dr. Paul L. Key, president of the Atlanta organization, presided, and Beddow was introduced by Murrah. More than 300 Lions attended.
